Notorious Gossip

"Have you forgotten my chops, waitress?"
"I never forget a face, Sir."

Vassar: "Have you seen Jane's engagement ring?"
Smith: "Have I seen it? Why, I wore it all last year!"

"Your silver wedding anniversary, is it? Congratulations."
"Yes, that's the first 25 years of it over."

Travel Agent (handing out one more booklet): "Samoa, sir?"
Prospective Tourist: "No, thanks; this will be enough."

Employer: "When do you start your holiday, John?"
John: "Next week, sir."
"Have you secured accommodation?" "Well—er—as a matter of fact, that's what is worrying me. Can you accommodate me to the extent of a five-pound note, sir?"

The dealer was emphasizing the sagacity of a horse he wanted to sell.

"That there 'orse," he said, "wants treating very gentle, because he's that artful. Why, if any silly bloke was to go and ill-treat him, that there 'orse would bear malice, just like a Christian!"

A man who had recently taken up golf was talking with a number of more experienced members in the club-house. "I went round in 124 to-day!" he said.

"Indeed," said, listener, courteously. "Was that net or gross?"
"Well," said the novice, "I'm afraid I don't quite know, but I should imagine that 124 is very gross indeed."

A school teacher asked her pupils to write a short essay and to choose their own subject.

PRESERVATION OF FOOD

Experts Pool Their Knowledge

(Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)
Karlsruhe, July 14.

The opening of the Reich Institute for the preservation of food recently took place here. The new Institute will form a second department of the 18-year-old Refrigeration Technical Institute of the Technical High School.

There is a loss of over one milliard marks each year by the souring of easily spoilt commodities, and Germany intends to use every technical and scientific means to reduce this enormous damage. What an important question this is, was more than proved by the fact that representatives from Holland, Sweden, Norway, Hungary and Switzerland attended the opening of the Institute and that delegates were also sent by the British Food Investigation Department, the American Refrigeration Union and the Swiss Research Institute for Wine and Fruit Cultivation.

At the Institute, the refrigeration engineer, the physico-chemist, the biologist and the physiologist will seek to combine the experiences each has gained in order to try and preserve the freshness of food commodities. The building contains five physiological and bio-

EXHIBITION IN GERMANY

Great Display For Olympia Guests

THREE SPECIAL SECTIONS

(Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)
Berlin, July 14.

From July 18 to August 16 there will be in the Exhibition Halls on the Kaiserdamm in Berlin an exhibition, which will allow the Germans and their foreign Olympia guests to get a glimpse of Germany from the air. One of the main reasons for this exhibition is to prove that Germany, in contrast to Soviet Russia, is eager to let all that is going on in the country to be seen openly, in order to try and obtain understanding for things that may not, in the past, have been clear to every one.

At a recent press interview the management of the exhibition explained that it would be divided into three sections: (1) the Cultural Department, "New Germany"; (2) the Agricultural Department, "German People and German Country"; (3) the Commercial Department, "Berlin, the Shop Window of the State." Each department will show much that has never been publicly exhibited before.

The Hall of Honour, where the Cultural Exhibition will be housed, will show as its finest exhibit the Gutenberg Bible, Germany's most precious literary achievement, which has never before been publicly displayed. In the cultural department, there will be rooms devoted to scientific and technical achievements, and in one of the latter, the State Railways will exhibit their most modern and largest express engine, 25 metres in length and weighing 2,000 cwts.

Another department will be devoted to the latest photographic and Roentgen achievements. Other sections will show how artificial silk is manufactured, the latest long-distance telephone arrangements, navigation by wireless and wireless achievement generally.

One thing, however, is certain, that is that almost everyone who visits the exhibition will take advantage of riding on the old Nuremberg train of 1835, which will be placed at the disposal of the visitors.

MORE REDUCTION IN TELEPHONE RESIDENTIAL SUBSCRIBERS TO BENEFIT

P. M. G.'s Statement

London, July 13.

Further important concessions to telephone users were announced today in the House Commons by the Postmaster General who said that since October 1934 when the series of reductions in telephone charges was inaugurated, the growth of the system had been remarkable.

The annual increase in telephone calls was now about double that of the years preceding the reduction of the rates. The principal new concession is that from October 1 every residential subscriber will be able to make 200 penny local calls yearly free of charge. Major Tryon said that in a large number of cases this would mean quarterly telephone rental of one pound would cover all normal charges for service and claimed with pride that the Post Office was thus offering inclusive services for small residential user in all but the largest cities at a figure closely approximating to 1s-6d weekly. At the same time all ordinary residential subscribers would secure a benefit up to 4s-2d each a quarter. Other reductions are made in favour of small business users. Total reductions made during recent year are estimated to involve a sacrifice of revenue after allowing for additional business induced by lower rates of one and half millions in a full year.

PORTUGAL HAS NEW CONSUL TO FOSTER BETTER RELATIONS

Manila, July 7.

Determined to improve trade relations between Portugal and the Philippines, Angelo da Costa Cavalho, new Portuguese consul in Manila, arrived yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Potsdam. He is the first consul to be sent from Portugal to the Philippines, the previous consuls appointed having been Manila residents.

Mr. da Costa first came to the Philippines in February this year, as trade commissioner from Portugal. During his stay here he studied local business conditions insofar as they relate to his country. He found that trade relations between the two countries amounted to nil. He set to work among local businessmen to start trading with Portuguese firms.

Upon his return to Portugal, he made the startling announcement that the Philippines had been exporting products to Germany, and that Portugal had been buying those Philippine products from Germany instead of direct from their source. The Portuguese government then took him away from the office of the foreign Minister and appointed him consul in Manila.

"I am determined to foment better trade relations between Portugal and the Philippines," he declared on his arrival. He said that commercial intercourse between the two countries would result in mutual benefits. He also disclosed that he had a message from his government for President Manuel L. Quezon.

BRITISH GAINS FROM FRENCH STRIKES

Healthy Signs For Home Products

SILK AND WOOL PROSPECTS

Several British industries will benefit by the changed labour conditions in France as a result of the strikes.

It is estimated that the combined effects of the wage increases, paid holidays, and the 40-hour week will raise manufacturing costs in France by an average of 12 to 15 per cent., without allowing for secondary effects, such as the rise in the price of petrol by 10 centimes a litre, or the additional costs of transport for exports.

French wholesalers are already sending notices to their customers advising that the prices of their products will be increased by at least 10 per cent. Trades which are likely to lose in competition with British, owing to the rise in the cost of French production, are silk, wool, wholesale clothiers, footwear, cement, glassware, clocks and watches, perfumery and cosmetics, motor manufacturing, and coal.

Before Britain came off the gold standard and the textile industry was more heavily protected, the Leicester hosiery trade was seriously menaced by French imports, for which the raw material was bought in the open markets of Australia, New Zealand, South America, South Africa and this country.

Since then competition with France in the home market has been greatly lessened in favour of Leicester. Present conditions, so long as France remains on the gold standard, are proportionately more favourable to Britain in competitive markets. The West Riding, however, is sceptical. There it is feared that France will balance her present disadvantages from the increased cost of production by raising internal prices according to her own increased spending power in order to pay for "cutting" export prices.

The silk trade is more optimistic about the future than it has been for some time. Until recently the production cost of silk and silk finished goods has been 50 per cent. lower in France. This was partly due to the fact that workers in the silk industry in France were receiving as little as 4 francs a day, and that a wage of 10 francs a day, or roughly 13s. 9d. a week, was fairly general.

Thus, the percentage increase in this industry is likely to be much greater than 15 per cent., and respective competitive prices will be drawn much closer. The consumption of silk in this country until last year, when it dropped to 28 per cent. included 38-40 per cent. from France. Great Britain was France's greatest market. Therefore, with the further rise in French prices which is likely to follow, our own home trade should benefit.

SHOE TRADE OUTLOOK

Imports of women's shoes from France have been considerable. This is likely to be reduced by higher foreign prices, and English trade in Egypt, where a large quantity of French footwear has been absorbed in competition with our own, is likely to be more favourable.

The French motor export trade, which has been dwindling during the last 3 years, is certain to show a further decrease in the three markets in which England is a fellow competitor—Belgium, Spain, and Switzerland. Her own internal market is protected by an "ad valorem" duty of 45 per cent.

Steel is unlikely to be affected by the new costs in France, as exports are covered by cartel agreements, but England is likely to gain ground from France in the Belgium coal market—France's only important coal outlet.

Glassware, perfumery, and cosmetics, which have a much wider market in which England competes, are still more liable to be increasingly profitable manufactures for Great Britain.

gal and the Philippines," he declared on his arrival. He said that commercial intercourse between the two countries would result in mutual benefits. He also disclosed that he had a message from his government for President Manuel L. Quezon.

WILL WATER VAPOR SPELL RUIN OF PRESENT-DAY TELEVISION PROSPECTS?

Washington, D. C.
Will water vapor spell the ruin of present-day television prospects?

Such a possibility was opened up recently by Ross A. Hull, speaking before the annual joint meeting of the International Scientific Radio Union and the Institute of Radio Engineers. In his paper Hull cited experimental results which listeners interpreted as contradicting the basic theory on which current television plans are being developed, and offered a new explanatory theory.

The "new television," according to the leading laboratories at work on this problem, will be located in the ultra-high-frequency territory below 7 meters, the reason being that these wavelengths have been customarily supposed to be limited in usefulness to little more than "line-of-sight" distances. The nature of television transmissions is such that one station cannot easily be separated from another, as is done with ordinary music and speech broadcasting, and so requires radio channels incapable of mutual interference.

In extended series of measurements over a period of fifteen months, representing over 10,000 recordings, however, Hull has demonstrated that this theory is not succeeded in establishing consistent communications between Hartford, Conn., and Boston, Mass., approximately three optical horizons, daily, without failure. Cooperating with Dr. C. F. Brooks of Harvard University's Blue Hills Observatory, Hull has made hourly measurements of five-meter signals from the Observatory at his hill-top laboratory in West Hartford, correlating these measurements with temperature and moisture data at different levels. The meteorological data has been supplied by daily airplane flights made at Boston.

As a result of these measurements, Hull has evolved a theory explaining why signals which supposedly should fade out after 10 or 20 miles are intelligible at 100 miles. This theory, in general terms, is that these ultra-short waves are affected by atmospheric conditions—water vapor content, temperature gradient, etc.—to a much greater extent than other radio waves, and that under conditions of temperature inversion in stratified air they are reflected or refracted in such a manner as to direct "sky" waves, which ordinarily would wing off into space, valid. During this period he has back to earth at diurnally and seasonally varying trajectories. Ordinary short waves are similarly returned to earth, but by an electrical ionized layer far above the stratosphere, and at distances of hundreds of miles. According to Hull's theory, on the other hand, the reflecting atmospheric phenomenon occurs at sub-stratosphere levels.

It is not under all types of conditions that this refraction occurs, and Hull attributes the reliability of his Boston-Hartford contact (the longest indirect signal path between the two cities) to the fact that the signals are reflected or refracted in such a manner as to direct "sky" waves, which ordinarily would wing off into space, valid. Ordinary short waves are similarly returned to earth, but by an electrical ionized layer far above the stratosphere, and at distances of hundreds of miles. According to Hull's theory, on the other hand, the reflecting atmospheric phenomenon occurs at sub-stratosphere levels.

It is not under all types of conditions that this refraction occurs, and Hull attributes the reliability of his Boston-Hartford contact (the longest indirect signal path between the two cities) to the fact that the signals are reflected or refracted in such a manner as to direct "sky" waves, which ordinarily would wing off into space, valid. During this period he has back to earth at diurnally and seasonally varying trajectories. Ordinary short waves are similarly returned to earth, but by an electrical ionized layer far above the stratosphere, and at distances of hundreds of miles. RESTORING SCOTS CULTURE

London, June 24.

The Montrose Society, which was formed some weeks ago to encourage Scottish culture, last night held a meeting in one of the rooms at St Andrew's Hall, Glasgow, to discuss the constitution and to elect office-bearers.

Professor C. J. Fordyce, of Glasgow University, presided, and in introducing Mr. William Power to address the meeting, he said the society had been organised by people who were interested in recovering or developing the position of Scotland as a cultural unit.

Mr. Power said that all the objects of the Montrose Society were vitally related to the cultural needs of Scotland. World culture had its roots in national culture. Detached from that it was a sapless and artificial product, existing precariously among isolated colonies, and without influence on social life as a whole. In a country where culture became thus de-nationalised and etiolated, the mass of the people were deprived of the only ladder—that of the whole national tradition—by which they could ascend to world culture. Having no developed standards of their own by which to assay the products of other countries, they imported the worst instead of the best—witness our crude imitations of public-school English and of the gibberish of American gangsters, and the supplanting of Scots songs by whining, broken-kneed stuff from the Bowery.

These fundamental facts had been ignored by our educational mandarins, and the result was that the Scots people were done out of their precious national heritage. What was the average Scots youth told about Dunbar and Henryson, George Buchanan and Napier of Merchiston, great men of his own race whose achievements would be to him a real inspiration? The neglect of these things was a crime, and it had resulted in the apathy of the Gaelic themselves.

It was little wonder, he concluded, that Scotland had failed to take her rightful place among the nations in scholarship, and did not produce her quota of savants and inventors. All learning, even physical science, was of cultural inspiration, and the roots of culture were national. If our educationists had forgotten that, it was for the Montrose Society to remind them, and to encourage and co-ordinate all efforts for the restoration of the cultural basis of our national life.

It was decided to alter the name of the Society to Saltire Society. The following office-bearers were elected: President, Professor C. J. Fordyce, Glasgow; vice-president, Mr. G. Pratt, Inverness; secretary, Mrs. Alison Bonfield; treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Boyd.

THE REAL VALUE OF MUSIC

Mr. Gerald Sydney Addresses
The Rotary Club

LECTURE ILLUSTRATED

An interesting and instructive address on "The Value of Music and its Relation to Poetry" was given by Mr. Gerald Sydney, Professor of Music, Royal Academy of Music, London, at the weekly tiffin of the Hong Kong Rotary Club held at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden yesterday afternoon. At the conclusion of his talk, the speaker played "Pastoral with variations" (Mozart) on the piano. He explained he chose the piece because of its utter simplicity and to illustrate the truth of what he had told the meeting.

Mr. Sydney emphasised that the true value of music was that which expressed the movements of the soul. It was his firm belief, after many years of study, that the lover of the right kind of music was just as natural as the air we breathe.

Guests introduced included Professor J. D. Busa, of Canton, a former well-known Hong Kong resident and speaker at the Rotary Club. Dr. E. Law, Capt. Muir and Mr. E. A. Braudie, of Hong Kong. Mr. W. N. Thomas Tam (President) said: "There has been some change in the setting of the room. I am not directly responsible but I hope members will like it. On behalf of the Club I wish to extend a very hearty welcome to two new members, Rotarian F. Rack and Rotarian Lambert Gock-chin (Applause). Our speaker for to-day, Mr. Sydney, has an introduction from Shanghai Rotary Club and in a letter the President speaks very highly of him. Poets say that music hath charms to soothe the savage's breast; this Club, more than any other, is in need of this sort of talk. (Laughter)."

At the outset of his talk, Mr. Gerald Sydney said that when he was quite a young man he was told by old experienced speakers and actors that the first thing he had to do when he rose to his feet was to put his audience in good humour. He had found that his audience was already in good humour. (Laughter).

THREE CLASSES
Mr. Sydney, continuing, said that music could be divided into three classes. The first was the popular music, such as modern dance tunes, sentimental crooning songs when which never rose above the level of the pleasure loving side of one's nature. They were not worth consideration. The speaker pointed out that he was not laying down the law but merely giving his opinion.

The second class of music was the type written only for expression. By that he meant that the ordinary man in the street had to have musical training and a knowledge of technical composition before he could appreciate it. This type was not music in the real sense of the word. It was more a science than an art and more mathematical than aesthetic.

One cannot define music, said Mr. Sydney as he went on to describe the third class of music which he said was the real music that lives forever. One heard about the music even if one did not listen to it. It was the expression of the movements, aspirations, dreams, sorrows and joys of the soul—an expression in sound. It was the only real music and was very, very simple. The more beautiful the thought the more beautiful the music to hear.

Everybody knew, said the speaker, that a man born with a lovely soul did not live up to it. Mr. Sydney drew the picture of a famous composer who had set music for a prima donna to sing. On the night of the concert the prima donna refused to sing and remarked that the song was beyond the human voice. The composer was tempted to forcibly throw the singer out of the window.

IMPULSES ALIVE
Mr. Sydney remarked that, as far as the value of music was concerned, it was to keep the impulses alive. Everyone knew that the circumstances of life were such that many people's souls became stunted, sometimes distorted and sometimes the soul scarcely existed.

The objection would probably arise, said Mr. Sydney, that some people were born with music and some were not. That was wrong. And it was also wrong to think that music was a kind of mystery into which some were initiated and some were not.

Mr. Sydney explained the reasons. The greatest reason, perhaps, was that people tried to listen to music with their brains instead of with their ears. They tried to get a concrete meaning from the music.

Recalling his childhood days, Mr. Sydney said that when he was seven or eight years of age he took his first music lessons from a young mistress and was being taught the Second Nocturne from Chopin. The teacher remarked that whenever she heard the piece played she seemed to see a deserted graveyard with a church on the top of the hill! (Laughter).

Mr. Sydney pointed out that one cannot imagine things with music or try to make music an intellectual study instead of aesthetic.

CASE FOR THE SESSIONSMANUFACTURE OF HEROIN PILLS

To Deter Others

R. O. Grimmer demonstrated the manufacture of heroin pills in the Central Court yesterday in support of his case against Man Yu, who was charged with the possession of 500 diacetyl morphine pills and unfinished pills and a mass capable of making a further 6,500 pills, at No. 18, Tung Man Street on June 30.

Mr. E. W. Hamilton, Superintendent of the Imports and Exports, appeared for the prosecution. The case was one for committal.

Mr. Hamilton said that in asking for committal there was a special reason. The situation regarding heroin pills was becoming so much out of hand that he was pressing for a sentence much greater than could be dealt out by His Worship.

On June 30, R. O. Grimmer and a party of revenue officers raided No. 18, Tung Man Street, acting on information received. The R. O. entered a cubicle and found the defendant actually making the pills with his hands.

The defendant said that he was a business man and did not know that it was illegal to have the pills. They had been given to him by a friend.

R. O. Grimmer in the witness box said that in the raid the defendant was found sitting on his bed with some pink paste in his hands. On a board near him was a mass of paste. Inside a washstand was a heating arrangement, above which were two trays on which were some pills drying. Behind the bed was found the pill making machine.

The defendant then admitted living there with his wife and child and that he paid a rent of $8 a month for the cubicle.

The paraphernalia had been taken and submitted to Mr. Taylor for the Government Analyst for examination. Yuen Kam, C.R.O. 98, then gave evidence which corroborated that of R. O. Grimmer, after which the defendant was committed to stand trial at the Criminal Sessions.

BODY DUMPED IN STREET

Unusual Case Heard
At Kowloon

BARBER FINED

A rather unusual case was heard by Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when three men, described as barbers were charged with "removing a dead body without written sanction or direction of the Registrar of Births and Deaths" on July 13.

Detective Inspector A. H. Elston (prosecuting) said that the Health Officer took a serious view of the case and was pressing for a fine. The accused men were: Ng Hop Sang, 64, barber shop keeper, Yau Kiu, 25, barber, and Pun Shui, barber, all of No. 950 Canton Road. All three admitted guilt.

Inspector Elston said that since Ng Hop (first accused) accepted responsibility for the offence, the other two could be discharged as the police had nothing against them. They were only folk of the first accused, and had acted under his instruction.

The two men were accordingly discharged.

Relating the facts of the case, Inspector Elston said that an unemployed man, named Cheung Ching, aged 34 years was allowed to sleep in the barber shop at 80, Street, until he obtained employment. At 6 a.m. on July 13 the man died of tuberculosis, and defendant with the help of his folk arranged to dump the body in the street where they left it.

In a subsequent statement to the police, defendant claimed that in the excitement of the moment and not wishing to spoil his business, he was compelled to get rid of the body.

"This is not the usual case of dumping the body of a baby," said that prosecuting officer. However, there were special circumstances attached to the case as the accused had not attempted to conceal the body in any way. In fact they frankly admitted dumping the body. Defendant, so far as the authorities were aware, possessed a good character. The Health Authorities viewed the case quite seriously.

Magistrate to defendant. In view of the special circumstances, I shall only impose a small fine of $5.

HUNDREDS DYING
DAILY
OF STARVATIONPARENTS SELL THEIR DAUGHTERS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 23.
Hundreds of persons dying of starvation daily—children deserted by their parents—the sale of daughters—people huddling themselves in dilapidated sheds or seeking refuge in the open.

These are some of the pictures brought back to Lanchow (Kansu) by a Chinese official who has toured the famine-stricken districts of Kansu Province, North-West China. Thousands of square miles of land lying west of the Yellow River are, he says in a state of utter devastation, and epidemics are adding to the misery of the inhabitants.

Conditions are steadily getting worse. In the Chichuan district alone, which lies between the Provinces of Chinghai and Ninghsia—more than 100 persons are dying of starvation daily.

TWENTY THOUSAND REFUGEES
In the neighbouring district of China there are no less than 20,000 refugees. The investigator saw hundreds of children roaming about in rags unwanted, while parents who tried to sell their daughters for a few dollars found buyers scarce.

The Commission appointed by the British Government to investigate the mul-tal ("girl slavery") problem in Hong Kong and Malaya is now touring Malaya. The Commission is hearing many stories of cruelty to mul-tal and also many arguments in favour of the system. Mul-tal is the Chinese term for "little sister." Little girls of poor families are sold to more prosperous families by parents who cannot support them. They are supposed to be treated as adopted daughters.

CHINESE STAGE PLAY PLEASURES

"THE ROMANCE OF THE WESTERN CHAMBER"

At The King's

Local theatre-goers had the good fortune of seeing the most famous Chinese classical play, "The Romance of the Western Chamber," at the King's Theatre yesterday night, when a Chinese theatrical performance was held in aid of the funds of the Chinese Company of the Hong Kong Police Reserve.

"The Romance of the Western Chamber," which was written in 1271, is a gem of Chinese literature, and is considered by many artists to surpass "The Lady Precious Stream," both in its plot and in the beauty of its songs and dialogue.

Much of the poetry in the play was sung to the music of the Cantonese opera, and was much appreciated by the large audience. The management of the Chinese Company of the Hong Kong Police Reserve are to be congratulated on the arrangement and their efforts in presenting such a fine show.

A number of really delightful songs greatly pleased the audience, especially those who have the taste for Chinese music. The

BENGUET MINES LEAD ALL P. I. GOLD PRODUCERS

Haussermann Success Began Development Of Industry

WORLD'S LARGEST CHROME DEPOSIT IN ZAMBALES READY FOR MARKET

The development of gold mining in the Philippines is due to a large extent to the success of Benguet Consolidated and of Balatoc. These two mines alone account for nearly P2,000,000 in bullion each month, or about two-thirds of the entire output of the Islands. It was not until Benguet and Balatoc had proven successful that other properties were developed and the industry started the upward trend which to-day makes it the second largest in the Philippines.

While these two mines are the main properties of the Benguet interests, several other projects are under the same management. Benguet Consolidated has an operating contract for the profit-sharing management of Ipo Gold Mines, in Bulacan, and owns the Cal Horri plant outright.

CHROME INTERESTS

Interest in chromite deposits was first aroused here by Benguet Consolidated when engineers for the company reported that a deposit of some 10,000,000 tons of low grade ore had been blocked out on the property of Consolidated Mines near Masinloc, in Zambales. This property is being operated by Benguet on a profit-sharing basis.

At present, Judge John W. Haussermann, head of the Benguet interests Courtney Whitney, president of Consolidated Mines; and George Scarfe, formerly chief geologist for Benguet, and now chief engineer for Consolidated Mines, are in the United States for the purpose of developing a market for this chrome. Metallurgical tests have been made near Niagara Falls, in New York, and the Zambales ore has been found suitable for use in the ferrochrome industries. It is believed that within a few months contracts will be signed for the ore, and the Philippines will thus become probably the largest producer of chromite in the world.

While the Zambales chrome deposits are the largest yet discovered, Benguet is working another sizeable deposit of this valuable strategic mineral, in Camarines Sur. Over 100,000 tons of high grade chrome has been blocked out on the properties of the Florante Mining Company. A contract for this ore has been concluded with the Union Carbide Company of New York, and shipments will be started within a few weeks.

DIRECTORATES

Judge Haussermann is president and general manager of both Benguet Consolidated and Balatoc; F. O. Haussermann, his son is first vice-president and assistant, general manager of both companies. A. F. Duggleby, one of the outstanding mining engineers in the Philippines, is second vice-president and director of both. Other directors of Benguet are M. M. Saleeby, Miss Rose T. McKee, and Mrs. M. Merritt; and of Balatoc, J.

Bertram Lewis, conductor, Richard Austin, From the Pavilion, Bournemouth. Overture, William Tell (Rossini). Symphony in D minor: (1) Lento: Allegro non troppo (2) Allegretto (3) Allegro: non troppo (Cesar Franck).

Benguet Consolidated has an authorized capitalization of 6,000,000 shares of par value one peso; all of this has been paid in. Net profits for 1935 were P7,302,277. Ore reserves as of January 1, were 1,013,899 tons valued at P28,958,238. The company started production in 1905, and paid its first dividend in 1918.

L. W. Lennox is general superintendent of Benguet Consolidated.

BALATOC

Balatoc has an authorized capitalization of 4,000,000 shares of par value one peso; of which all has been paid in. Net profits for 1935 were P8,337,750. Ore reserves at the first of the year were 1,060,728 tons, valued at P31,665,450. Production was started in 1929.

D. W. Butler is general superintendent of Balatoc.

IPO GOLD

Ipo Gold Mines has an authorized capital of 1,000,000, of which P771,738 is paid in. Net profits for 1935 were P110,072. Ore reserves on January 1 were estimated at 49,553 tons, valued at P538,400, but this figure has been increased considerably since that time through an intensive development campaign. Production was started in 1934.

Ernest Burgess is general superintendent of Ipo.

Cal Horri, which adjoins Balatoc in the Baguio district, is owned outright by Benguet. A 150-ton plant was started early in 1935, and production has been about P75,000 a month. Ore from the Ukab mines will be treated in the plant, starting this month.

J. B. Harrison is general superintendent of Cal Horri.

The work of completing a 10-mile aerial tram line from the chromite of the Florante Mining Company in Camarines Sur to tide-water has been completed, and ore will be started to the States this month.

In Zambales, the work of constructing a road from the Consolidated Mines claims to the coast is now well under way, so that as soon as negotiations for the sale of the ore have been completed production can be started immediately. F. L. Knouse is resident engineer for Benguet here and W. S. Lamon is in charge of the railway highway survey.

LARGE CAMPS

The Benguet interests have the two largest mining camps in the Philippines, at Balatoc and at Benguet Consolidated. Paved roads have been built from the city of Baguio nearly to these camps themselves; all modern conveniences have been furnished for the comfort of the employees of the plants. Benguet has endowed the Notre Dame hospital, of Baguio, and this institution is now one of the best of its kind in the Islands; it is maintained for the treatment of Benguet employees, but is open to residents of Baguio and to employees of other mines.

While burglars broke into his master's house, recently, Rin Tin Tin, Junr., dog hero of the movies, slept. In his latest movie, he captured a whole band of robbers single-handed.

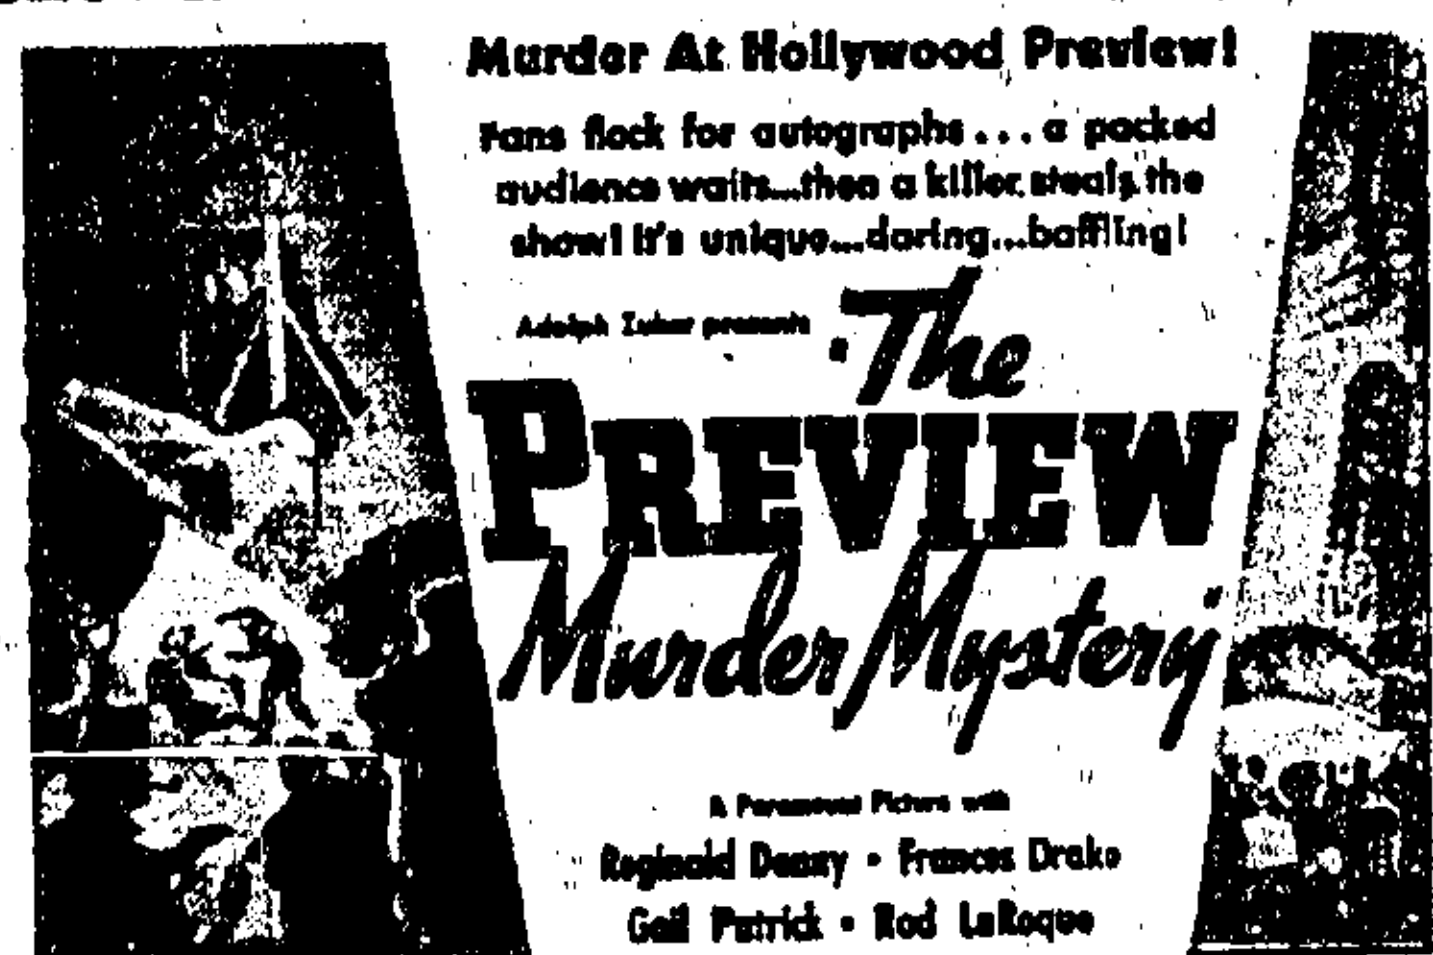

Maxie Stinkelsaumer, the producer, was selecting a chief for his scenario staff. The producer insisted that the successful applicant must be a college graduate. He looked with favour upon one applicant, and asked if he had had a college education. The answer was in the affirmative.

"Lemme see your diplomas," demanded Maxie. The applicant tried to explain that it was not customary for college graduates to carry diplomas with them.

"Well, den," demanded the producer, "say me a big word."

NEW FILMS IN LONDON
ROMANTIC COMEDY AND MELODRAMA

Baroness Orczy's novel "The Emperor's Candlesticks" has been translated to the screen, and is to be seen in London.

THE EMPEROR'S CANDLESTICKS

The novel by the Baroness Orczy from which this film is made is one of those stories of high international intrigue which are quite probably very like life but never look as though they were. The characters speak invariably either in riddles or gallantries, and know how to wrap any platitude in mystery. Their adventures are obscure in their implications, suggesting the oddest ramifications of diplomacy, but obvious on the surface and in their pattern. The settings are opulent, and it seems to be an accepted principle that no important affairs can be conducted without the best food and wine. The mixture, in fact, is very familiar, but it is the kind of story that is very well managed in an Austrian film. No doubt the German dialogue saves one something, but even so, it is remarkable how the actors seem to believe in their work and how credible they make their characters. The film moves as quickly as it can and with an excellent economy in the description of journeys and of the actual search for the missing candlesticks. The settings are often attractive; an archduke has a fine baroque palace, conspirators work in a room adorned by Manet's "Execution of the Emperor Maximilian," and all the richer interiors are pretty. There is also an amusing caricature of an English butler.

THE FARMER IN THE DELL

One of Hollywood's favourite stories about itself centres in the humble, elderly parent who, seeking a career for his pretty daughter in a film studio, is himself seized upon as a great natural character and whirled aloft to fame and fortune. His wife invariably overestimates his rate of progress, whisks herself into orgies of extravagance, throws her daughter to the fortune hunters, and is only brought to penitent tears in the nick of time. It is an excellent story and is given freshness in this case by Mr. Fred Stone's glove-tight adaptation of his own personality to that of the unpretending parent. He triumphantly brings off the double feat of being to his actual audience, precisely what he is supposed to be to his

AND SO THEY WERE MARRIED

Fire and water mix in a judicious concoction of gay sophistication and uproarious romance in Columbia's "And So They Were Married," the new attraction scheduled to open at the Alhambra Theatre to-day. The water in the case is Mary Astor and Edith Fellows, a mother-and-daughter combination surpassed only by each other in their aversion to men. The "fire-eaters" are Melvyn Douglas and his woman-hating, 11-year-old son, Jackie Moran.

With their preconceived ideas of the uselessness of the opposite sex, these interesting pairs are brought together at a winter resort where they have gone, separately, to give their children a "white" Christmas in the snow.

Against their will, Astor and Douglas discover themselves falling in love. Although they can't help themselves, their children determine to end the romance. Amusing situations continue to develop as the children do everything in their power to achieve this end. Nothing happens until Douglas by accident happens to give Mary's young daughter a sound spanking. Furious, Mary breaks the engagement.

From there on "And So They Were Married" swirls in a series of hilarious episodes to a laugh-filled climax.

Elliott Nugent directed from the screen story by A. Laurie Brazee, Doris Anderson and Joseph Anthony.

"SPLENDOR"

Miriam Hopkins came a long way from the gambling palaces of the "Barbary Coast" to the drawing rooms of New York's Fifth Avenue to-day when "Splendor," her second film for Samuel Goldwyn, comes to the King's Theatre.

Written by the famous playwright, Rachel Crothers, this smart, sophisticated story casts the glamorous blonde star as Phyllis Manning, a penniless Southern beauty who marries Brighton Lorrimer, (Joel McCrea) scion of a once-great New York family, whose sole remaining assets are their name and their Fifth Avenue mansion. Phyllis receives a cold reception from the family especially the embittered, domineering mother, (Helen Westley) who had schemed to recoup the family fortunes by marrying Brighton to a sausage heiress.

When Martin Deering (Paul Cavanagh), a charming, wealthy and influential relative of the Lorrimeres, shows an unmistakable interest in Phyllis, Mrs. Lorrimer secretly forces her to sacrifice herself to further Brighton's career and insure a return to luxury for the Lorrimeres.

When Brighton learns of the sacrifice Phyllis has made for him, he is neither understanding nor forgiving, so she leaves and gets herself a job. However, he realizes his error in time to insure a happy fadeout.

While Brighton learns of the sacrifice Phyllis has made for him, he is neither understanding nor forgiving, so she leaves and gets herself a job. However, he realizes his error in time to insure a happy fadeout.

NEWS FLASHES

Columbia Signs Joel McCrea

Columbia lately engaged Joel McCrea, a favourite of long-standing on the screen for the male lead in "Adventure in Manhattan," opposite Jean Arthur. This title replaces "Purple and Fine Linen." The story is by May Edginton and was published in a national magazine last year. Edward Ludwig will direct. Mr. McCrea was last seen as the male lead in "Splendor" and "These Three." Following a short, but successful stage career, Mr. McCrea made his picture debut in "The Jazz Age" and later was placed under contract by MGM and was seen in "Five O'Clock Girl," "Dynamite," "So This Is College" and "The Single Standard."

More recently he has appeared in "Richest Girl in the World," "Gambling Lady," "Half a Sinner," "Private Worlds," "Our Little Girl," "Woman Wanted" and "Barbary Coast."

CHESTER MORRIS AND FAY WRAY IN NEW PRODUCTION

Columbia will shortly place in production "There Goes The Bride," by that popular magazine story writer, Octavus Roy Cohen. Chester Morris will have the leading role, with Fay Wray as the heroine. It will be brought to the screen by Alfred E. Green, and will be that noted director's first picture under his recently signed long-term contract with the company. Three of Columbia's prominent contract players, Lionel Stander, Henry Morrison and Raymond Walburn will appear in featured roles.

Chester Morris has just completed the leading role in "Counterfeit," to be released by Columbia this month, while Miss Wray, was recently seen opposite Ralph Bellamy in "Roaming Lady." Mr. Green has directed this season's such successful productions as "Sweet Music," "Girl From Tenth Avenue," "Here's to Romance," "The Goose and the Gander" and "Dangerous."

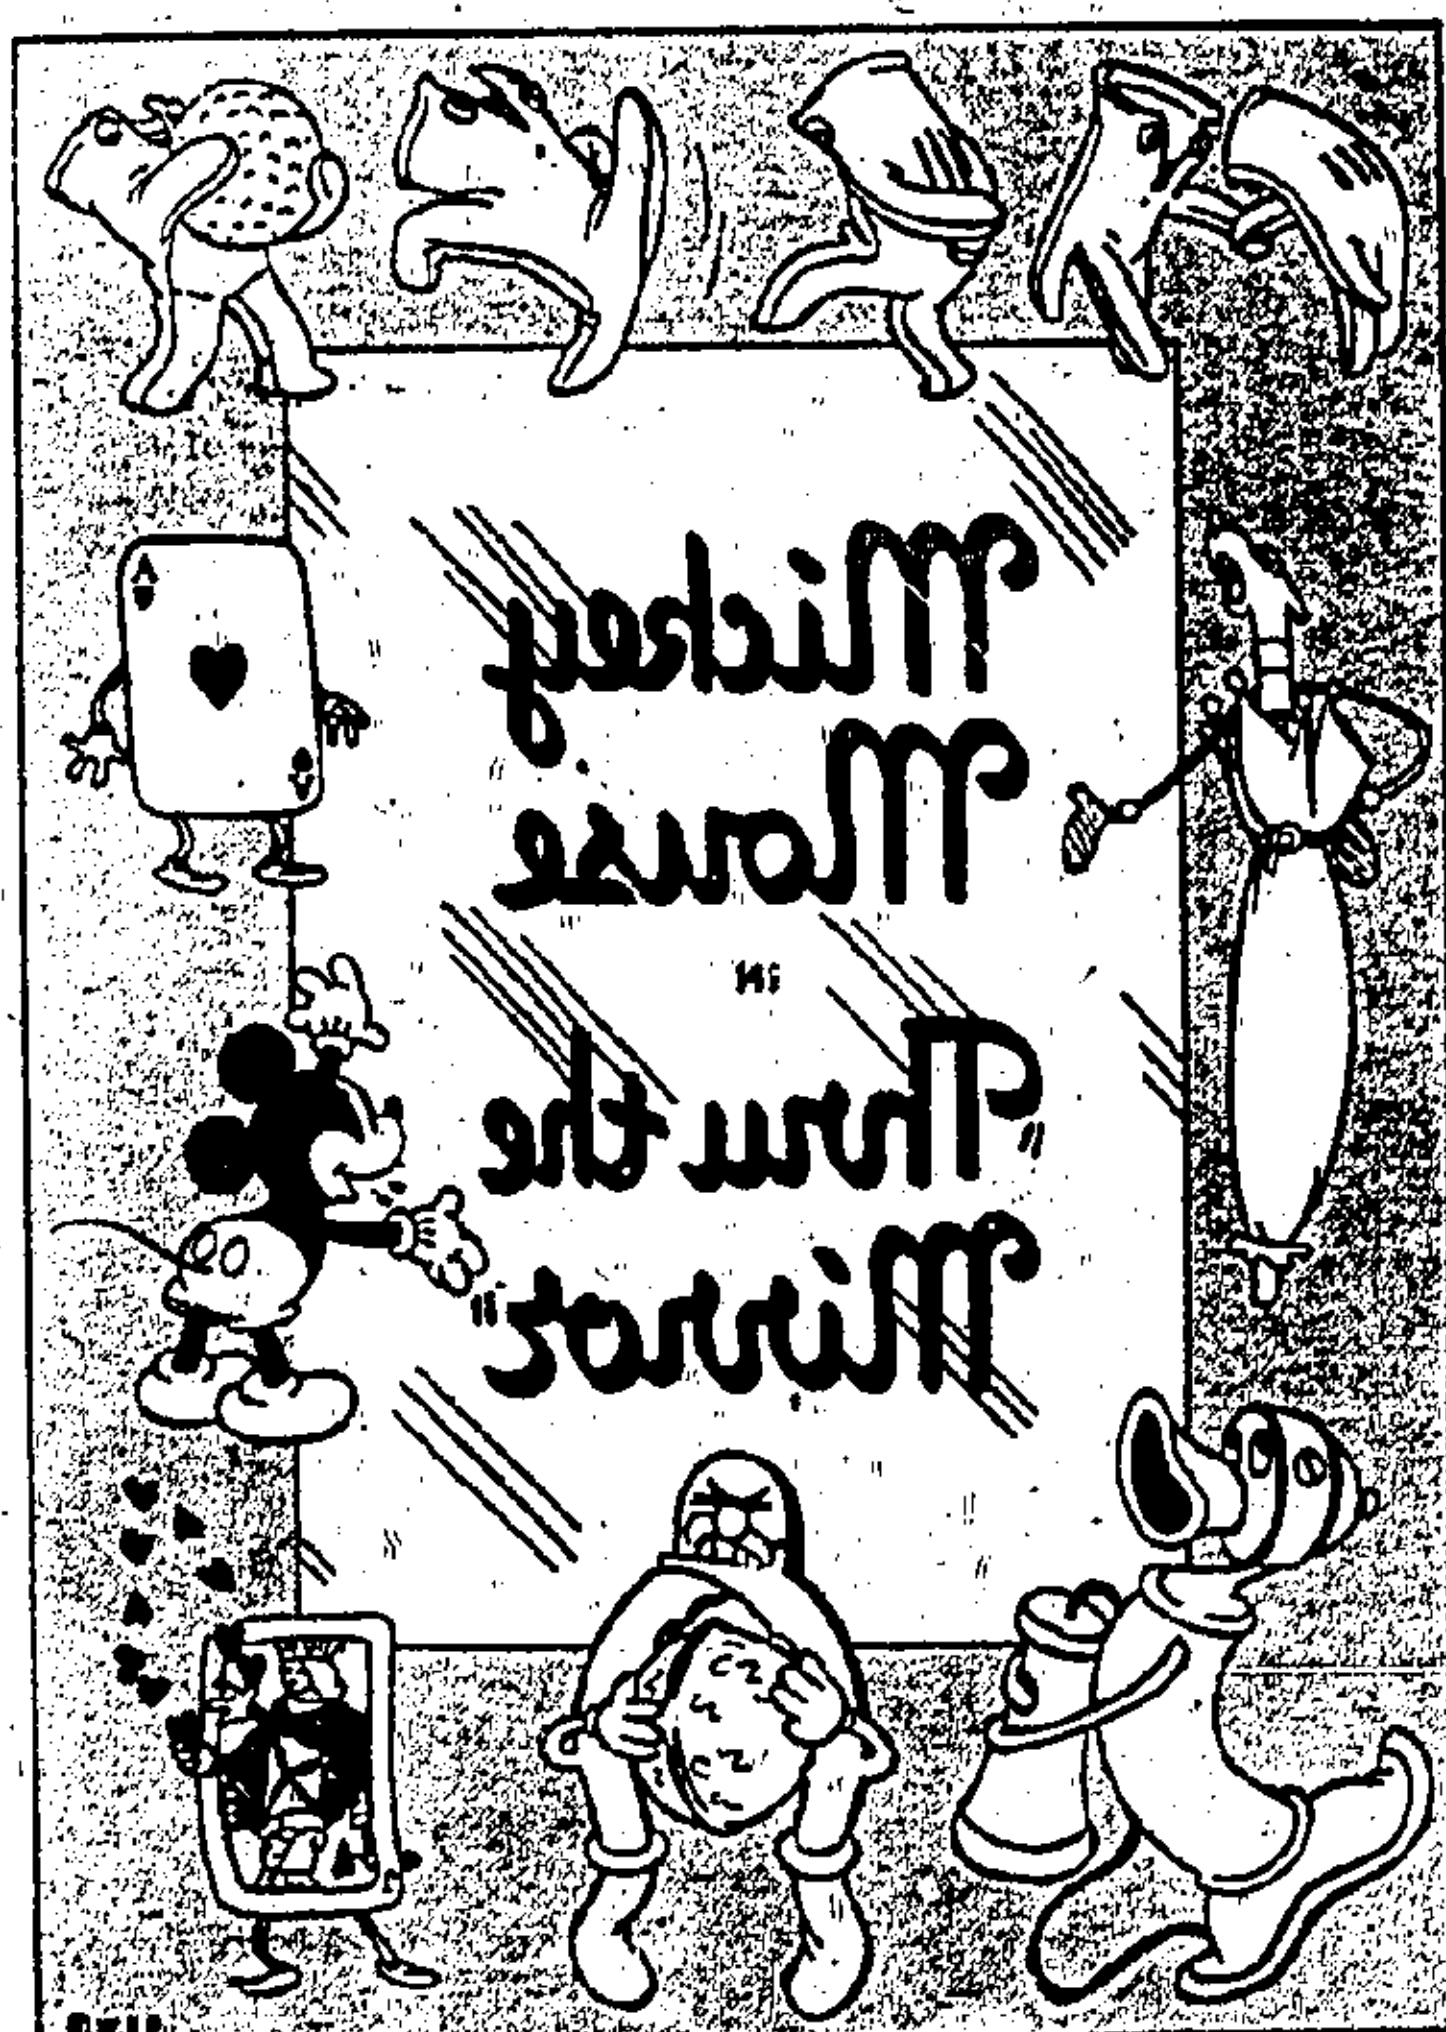

LONG TERM CONTRACT FOR CHESTER MORRIS

Chester Morris, who has just completed the leading role in Columbia's "Counterfeit" which will be released early this month, has been placed under long-term contract by the company.

Mr. Morris' first appearance under the new agreement will be opposite Fay Wray in "There Goes The Bride," a picturization of Octavus Roy Cohen's widely read story, which will be brought to the screen under the direction of Alfred E. Green.

A son of William Morris, the famous actor, Chester Morris had a noted career on the stage before making his screen debut eight years ago in "Alibi." Since then he has played leads and has been featured in scores of pictures. Some of his appearances during the current season include those in "I've Been Around," "Only Eight Hours," "Public Enemy No. 1," "Princess O'Hara" and "Frankie and Johnnie."

Walt Disney's newest Mickey Mouse production

BRITISH AGENT

With Kay Francis in the role of a beautiful Russian girl in "British Agent," the first National production which comes to the Star Theatre to-day, for one day only Hollywood history again repeats itself.

Five years ago, she made her first picture on the Warner Bros. lot in a picture called "The Notorious Affair," for which she was borrowed from another studio. In this she played a Russian girl of the same general type as her present role with Leslie Howard in "British Agent."

Miss Francis has always had a leaning toward foreign characterizations and in at least three of them has scored a notable success. She was Tanya, a Russian girl in "Mandala," Madame Colet, a French girl in "Trouble in Paradise," and a Serbian character in "Storm at Daybreak." The part in "Mandala," which she made under her current contract, was considered by many as one of her finest performances.

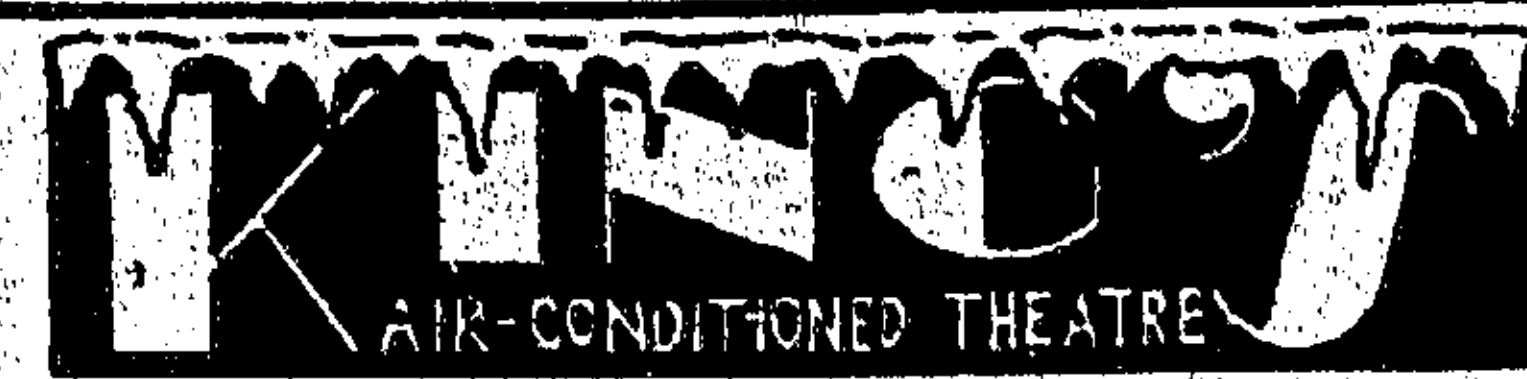

In "British Agent," she is Elena, the sweetheart of the hero. In this, she is much more than a mere romantic interest, since most of the complications are the direct result of her machinations.

Elena, rabidly attached to the cause of freedom, is beautiful, cultured and from a family that once enjoyed the favour of the Romanoffs. She believes, however, that the only hope for her people is to throw off the yoke of Czarism. She dedicates her life to the cause. She sacrifices everything in her devotion to the revolutionary leaders. When love for the "British Agent" enters into her scheme of life, she accepts it because she cannot help herself, but she never lowers the banner she is carrying for her countrymen.

To her lover, England comes first; to her Russia. Both are therefore enemies, even in each other's arms.

Against the background of crashing forces re-shaping the face of the earth, their own drama is joined with the greater concerns of Destiny. Elena plays a part that makes her the centre of the British Agent's difficulties.

The cast of "British Agent" is fast company even for such players as Leslie Howard and Kay Francis. Among the featured ones are Irving Pichel, Walter Byron, William Garret, Ivan Simpson, J. Carroll Nash, Paul Porcasi, Halliwell Hobbes, Doris Lloyd, Gregory Gave and Alphonse Etille.

FATAL MOTOR ACCIDENT RECALLED

DRIVER TO PAY
WIDOW

Negligence Alleged

The hearing was resumed yesterday afternoon at the Summary Court of the claim of Soo Fung Shi, plaintiff, for damages against Sanitary Inspector M. D. Watson. Incurred through the death of the plaintiff's husband, Soo Kau, who was knocked down and fatally injured by the defendant's car in the corner of Poplar and Nathan Roads on November 19, 1935.

The case was heard before Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden, with Mr. Peter H. Sin appearing for the plaintiff, and Mr. W. A. Mackinley for the defendant.

Mr. Mackinley admitted that the defendant drove the car on the day of the accident. It was an inevitable accident, and it was not due to negligence nor excessive speed in driving.

A CHILD

Mr. Watson, in the witness box, said that on November 19 at about 2 p.m. he left his house in Prince Edward Road. At the level with the electric light stand on Nathan Road side of Poplar Road, a brown touring car came in front of him, and a small boy was standing in the middle of the road. Thinking that the child would remain there, he swerved slightly to the left, and took his foot off the accelerator. In the act of doing so, the child moved towards his car at an angle, and to avoid him, he, the defendant, braked the car and skidded.

He could not straighten out the car, nor was there room to steer back. He hit something on the road, which he later discovered to be a man-hole. He saw two men standing under the verandah, but he could not avoid hitting the verandah. He hit one man with the off mud-guard, while the other man stepped backwards, and was struck by the radiator with full force. The latter was only injured with a slight fracture of the leg.

He said that there was no special precaution to take at that part of the road.

BILL PRESENTED

The plaintiff came to the office and brought a Chinese bill with her amounting to $54 or $64 for funeral expenses owed to an undertaker in Portland Street, and asked him to pay the bill. She returned on the following day, and defendant asked her to sign a statement that he was in sympathy and not responsible for the death of her husband, whereupon he would pay the expenses. She said that she would return, and subsequently came in with a fresh offer of at least half in cash of the funeral expenses and to make arrangements for the payment of the other half. She asked for a hawk's licence, and defendant promised to do what he could for her. She later procured the licence with his financial aid, but wanted some money to purchase some commodity to sell. The defendant, however, refused to go beyond the original offer.

Mr. Sin said that the licence was only a white elephant to the unfortunate woman, as she had no wherewithal with which to purchase any commodity.

Mr. Sin asked the defendant if it was not true that there was a school in the vicinity, and Mr. Watson said that there was no school there at the time of the accident.

When Mr. Sin asked defendant if he had been drinking during time on that day, Mr. Mackinley objected on the ground that it was without instruction, and therefore irrelevant.

Defendant said that everyone accelerated to 35 miles per hour at the point of the road, as no street led into it until Castle Peak Road was reached.

The skid, he said, was due to the braking of the car on loose gravel, which was always more dangerous than a hard rough surface. The defendant admitted that he was smoking at that time, and still had a cigarette in his mouth when he got out of the car.

ACCUSTOMED TO ROUTE

Mr. Hayden asked the defendant if he knew the road well, and the reply was he drove on it continuously. He knew of the repairs on the road, but man holes were very rare.

Mr. Mackinley submitted that the case was a question of facts, pure and simple. That judgment of the road was not a controlled area, and it could be taken as

JUDGMENT AGAINST BANK'S CLERK

BANK NOT LIABLE

Judgment was delivered yesterday by the Acting Pulane Judge, Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden in the case wherein Fung Kui Hoi, sought to recover from the National City Bank of New York and Lai Sin Chow, formerly a clerk employed by the Bank, $1,700 which he alleged was the balance of two sums deposited by the plaintiff in 1937.

Mr. M. C. McCallum appeared for plaintiff and Mr. J. T. Prior for the Bank.

Reviewing the evidence in his judgment, Mr. Justice Hayden said that plaintiff had stated he was 65 years of age, but had emigrated to Canada, where for 20 years he carried on business as a laundryman and accumulated certain money which he remitted to Hong Kong. Returning to Hong Kong in 1937, he withdrew his money and deposited it with the National City Bank on fixed deposit.

Later he became acquainted with Lai who suggested that the money be withdrawn from fixed deposit and lodged in the Savings Bank. This was done and for a few years plaintiff drew annual interest as well as withdrawing some of the principal.

On December 31, 1935, plaintiff said he went to the bank intending to withdraw all his money but was told by Lai that there was none to his credit. He thereupon consulted solicitors.

NO AUTHORITY

The Bank's defence was that Lai had no authority to receive money.

Mr. Justice Hayden found that Lai had misappropriated the original sums lodged by the plaintiff and had paid the interest and withdrawals from his own money so that plaintiff should not discover the fraud.

"There is no evidence," he said, "that the Bank held out Lai as being invested with authority to receive money and I am satisfied that any clerk which a bank puts behind its counter is not clothed with ostensible authority to receive money on behalf of the bank. Were it otherwise it would put a premium on dishonesty and it would require little ingenuity for a dishonest clerk and an unscrupulous customer to conspire together to defraud the bank."

In giving judgment against Lai, Mr. Justice Hayden said that he had apparently absconded and did not defend the case, plaintiff's evidence had to be accepted. He found that Lai had received plaintiff's money and had applied it to his own use.

Mr. Justice Hayden ordered that the Bank was entitled to deduct their taxed costs of both actions from the money in the Bank's hands belonging to Lai in respect of his provident fund before being called on to account for it.

prima facie evidence, while some people would go so far as to say that it was conclusive evidence. It was a mischance that there happened to be a man hole there, and but for the initial skid he would have missed the man hole. There was no evidence of negligence nor the excessiveness of speed in driving.

Mr. Sin pointed out that a car mounting the curb was negligence. The fact that the defendant was smoking a cigarette, and that the cigarette was still between his lips after the accident showed that he was driving light heartedly, and at random. Instead of taking his foot off the accelerator when he saw the boy he should have applied his brakes immediately to avoid hitting the child, or the curb.

EXCESSIVE SPEED USED

In his judgment, Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden, deplored the amount of jay walking in the Colony, and that it was the duty of every car driver to be cautious of all pedestrians. He thought that the way in which the accident happened showed that there had been excessive speed used by the defendant. Considering the fact that the defendant knew that the road was in the state of repairs, he should have driven with more care, and have proper control of the car. The defendant was not entitled to think that he had a clear road to go on any speed he desired, and he must set aside that fatal injuries or the deceased was attributed to negligence.

Judgment was given in favour of the plaintiff for $600.00, and costs.

COLONY STREET LIGHTING DISGRACE TO COMMUNITY

Outburst By Kowloon Resident At Annual Meeting

LADY ELECTED TO COMMITTEE

Street lighting in the Colony was described as a disgrace to the community by Mr. T. B. Wilson, a former Vice-President, when speaking at the annual general meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association held in St. Andrew's Church Hall yesterday evening. Mr. Wilson also stated that he was amazed to find so little enthusiasm in the Association on the part of residents of Kowloon.

Mr. Li Chor Chi (President) was in the chair and was supported by Mr. Charles E. Terry (Hon. Secretary) and Mr. R. P. Phillips (Hon. Treasurer).

Mrs. E. W. Gardiner was elected to serve as a member of the General Committee. She is the first lady to serve in the history of the Association.

Among those present were Dr. Ip Kam Wah, Dr. B. de Souza, Messrs. B. Wylie, Rupert Baldwin, T. B. Wilson, R. Pestonji, Lam Ming Fan, F. C. Mow Fung, J. M. Alves, E. C. Tregillus, H. Gittins, W. C. Felslow, and Mrs. E. W. Gardiner.

In proposing Mr. Wylie as President, Mr. Li Chor Chi remarked that Mr. Wylie was President in 1924 and since then had held every other office in the K.R.A. Mr. Terry seconded and the proposal was carried with acclamation.

Proposing the election of Mrs. Gardiner to the General Committee, Mr. Terry said that some weeks ago the Hon. Dr. Kotewall, speaking at the Rotary Club, mentioned that the time would come when Hong Kong would have a lady Governor, though, of course, that was a long way off. Revolutionary as it might seem, he would like to put forward the name of Mrs. E. W. Gardiner to serve on the General Committee. There were quite a number of lady members in the Association and it was time they had the fairer sex represented on the Committee. Certain questions that arose from time to time, added Mr. Terry might be solved by a lady's mind better than by men's. The proposal was seconded by Mr. Wylie and carried unanimously.

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH

The President, addressing the meeting, said:—Ladies and Gentlemen—It is my privilege as President of the Kowloon Residents' Association to propose on the adoption of the report on its activities during the year 1935. It is to be regretted that through unavoidable causes, this Annual Meeting which should have been held last March, has been delayed till this month.

As is shown in the printed report of my Committee, a number of matters concerning the welfare of Kowloon have been given close attention during the past year. There are, however, several important items mentioned in the Report I would like to comment upon briefly.

STREET LIGHTING

The chief one is in regard to Street Lighting, and as members are no doubt aware, your former Committee previously pressed Government to improve Street Lighting in Kowloon. During the past year your Committee again took up the matter with a view to having the lighting improved in certain parts of the Peninsula. At one time, for a period of two months or so, there was a noticeable improvement in the lighting along Nathan Road from the Alhambra Theatre to the junction of Waterloo Road. However, this was only for an experiment, and the lighting eventually reverted to its former unsatisfactory condition.

Government will not commit themselves in any way, but we presume, that it is financial reasons which are holding up better street lighting in Kowloon. Financial stringency no doubt holds up a certain amount of Government projects in the Colony, but in view of the number of serious and fatal accidents which have occurred in Nathan Road during recent years, some of which were attributed to the defective street lighting, this should not be allowed to hold up a necessary improvement of such importance.

BOTANICAL GARDENS

The next matter. With the rapid growth of Kowloon there is an increasing need for public amenities, and it was suggested last year by a number of Chinese residents that Government be approached for the formation of a Kowloon botanical gardens. If Government could be persuaded favourably to consider the idea, it would be a step further in making the Kowloon Peninsula more attractive. The recent improvement along Chatham Road where an ugly strip of land had been formerly, is now completely transformed by laying it out as a small garden with turf, flower beds, well-kept paths and benches. This outcome of the Association's efforts is gratifying and there are numerous bits of land on the Peninsula which could be thus improved at very little cost.

Another matter discussed last year was in regard to the Islands along Prince Edward Road. It is generally agreed that these serve little or no useful purpose, and it is presumed that they are left as they are as Government wishes to save the expense of road repairs. However, a suggestion is that if suitable trees were grown on these islands, they would enhance the appearance of this fine road, and afford a welcome relief from the trying glare of the sun during the summer months. I feel, though, that opinion is divided concerning the usefulness of these islands and time alone will decide their fate.

UNSOLVED CRIMES

My committee view with grave disquiet the number of unsolved crimes, murder and robberies, which have occurred on the Peninsula during the past year without the perpetrators being apprehended. Whilst I do not wish to traduce the local police, who are doing their best under the most trying circumstances, it is felt that some means should be adopted to cope with the needs of such a large community as Kowloon has grown to be, and residents have every right to feel that the Police will take steps to accord them more adequate protection.

I would like to take this opportunity of expressing the thanks of the Committee to the officials of Government Departments and other members of the community with whom we have come in contact during the year, for their kindly care and attention on any matters which we have taken up with them. I would also like to thank the Council of St. Andrew's Church for the use of its Hall for meetings and also the Press for the publicity it has given to this Association's activities. Personally, I am grateful for the keen co-operation of members of the Committee who, one and all, most ably and willingly worked in dealing with various matters concerning the public welfare on the Peninsula, and I would specially mention Mr. J. H. Shaw, who was Honorary Secretary during the greater part of last year, and was most helpful to me.

I now formally move the adoption of the report and accounts, which as they have been in your hands for the requisite time I will take as read. When this has been seconded I shall be pleased to answer any questions thereon members may wish to put.

MEMBER'S CRITICISM

Following the election of officers, Mr. T. B. Wilson, addressing the meeting, said:—I just want to say that I am amazed to come to the K.R.A. annual meeting and find so little enthusiasm on the part of the residents of Kowloon. We comprise over here just about a half of our Colony and the committee and members of the K.R.A. should bring about what little we are able to accomplish in the way of getting gardens, play grounds, etc. What little we can get we can thank the K.R.A. to a great extent. I should like to see something done by the K.R.A. or by the community at large to instill more enthusiasm into the residents. There is no reason why with over 400,000 people we should not have a membership of thousands instead of just hundreds. I don't know what can be done and I am not making any suggestions but if anyone can instill more enthusiasm they should do what they can. I was amazed that nothing has been done about our street lighting. Experimental work has been done in Kowloon at the instigation of the K.R.A. Some experimental work is being done on the Hong Kong side. In the six months that I have been away on holiday in America there have, I believe, been more accidents in Nathan Road than during the previous year. Where can we go? What can we do?

I have travelled across America twice and also through Canada and in no town, even in the smallest of towns, did I find street lighting so poor as that which we have here in Hong Kong. It is a disgrace to the community and if the new Committee can do anything to impress Government to do anything about it we shall have accomplished a great deal. (Applause.)

The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the outgoing officers, proposed by Mr. Pestonji.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—President, Mr. B. Wylie; Vice-President, Mr. F. C. Mow Fung; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. R. P. Phillips; Hon. Secretary, Mr. Rupert Baldwin.

General Committee: Rev. J. R. Higgins, Dr. Ip Kam Wah, Messrs. L. D'Almada, Jun., J. M. Alves, R. Pestonji, Lam Ming Fan, W. C. Felslow, F. H. Loseby, C. E. Terry, D. W. Munton, I. N. Murray, E. Kern, H. Gittins, Andrew Cheung, Li Chor Chi, T. B. Wilson and Mrs. E. W. Gardiner.

NEW BARRISTER ADMITTED TO PRACTICE

MR. WING KON LOO

Mr. Wing Kon Loo made an application to be admitted as a barrister at law in the Colony, and was approved by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, yesterday morning.

The Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, K.C., said that the application was a formal one, with the presentation of the necessary affidavits and credentials.

Mr. W. K. Loo was a graduate of Lingnam University of Canton, and was admitted to the bar in London on November 19th, 1934. He is the eldest son of Mr. Hing Yun Loo, a barrister at law of the Inner Temple, and who was formerly the President of the Provincial Court of Shanghai, and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canton.

The Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor said, "It is a very great pleasure to accede and to approve the admission of Mr. W. K. Loo as a member to the bar of the Colony."

Mr. W. K. Loo, you have chosen the best of all professions and I am sure that you will always find that your work will be full of interest, and I hope that you will be very successful and happy in your future career.

LARGE GATHERING AT FRENCH RECEPTION

MANY NATIONS FELICITATE GOVERNOR PRESENT

The residence of M. J. Leursquin, French Consul General in Hong Kong was the scene of an international gathering yesterday, on the occasion of the fall of the Bastille, a "Fete Nationale" of the French, when a reception was held in the morning, attended by His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, Kt. C.M.G., C.B.E., attended by Capt. W. J. R. Cragg, A.D.C. and Lady Caldecott, Hon. Mr. R. A. C. North, His Honour Sir Atholl Macgregor, the Hon. C. G. and Mrs. Alabaster, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., the Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson, the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chan, the Hon. Mr. Edwin Taylor, Mr. E. P. H. Lang, Mr. T. M. Hazell, Mr. and Mrs. Renner, the Hon. Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Wellington, Miss Helen Yu, Mr. L. Rondon, members of the Consular Body and many others.

CONSUL'S SPEECH

Addressing the gathering the French Consul said:

Your Excellencies, Ladies and Gentlemen—Joy being incomplete when solitary, the French Community of Hong Kong, glad as they are to celebrate their National Day, the fete of their beloved Motherland, "la douce" France, would not feel perfectly happy without meeting on that auspicious occasion as many as possible of their foreign friends; therefore I thank you for having accepted to join us to-day; but allow me to mention specially how honoured we are by the presence of His Excellency the Governor, the direct representative of the August Sovereign who presides over the destinies of the British Empire.

For the French men of my generation, it is a matter of course to have for this Sovereign almost the same respect and affection as his own subjects. How could it be otherwise? Have we not seen successively on the Throne first, King Edward the Seventh, the promoter of that Entente Cordiale, which proved so beneficial to both our countries and to the world; and, then, King George V, who, for more than a quarter of a century, during peace as during war, was for France, the most faithful friend, the most loyal ally; and, now, King Edward VIII who, whether on studies, or on leisure, or on military duty, has spent so much of his time in our country that we confidently believe that His Majesty has sympathy for her because he knows her under each one of her different, and maybe disconcerting aspects, from the silent patience of her peasants to the acuteness of mind of her thinkers, from the traditional love for the "bas de laine" to the total gift of one-self which sends so many of her sons and daughters into the missionary career, from the alleged frivolity of the man in the street to the burning patriotism of the man in the trenches.

SEEM DIFFICULT

To the casual observer, the political life of France may, too, seem difficult to understand; but in fact it is inspired by two great principles. First, the French want "will" peace, peace for them, peace for others, peace with justice and honour, and are but too glad to shake hands with every loyal nation. But, with their usual logic, willing peace, they will also the ways and means of peace; not deeming possible to have gentlemen without a Court, nor a Court without gentlemen. That their concrete proposals to that end have not always met with success shall be for them a reason, not to cease their efforts, but to redouble them.

Secondly, to the one hundred millions of men sheltering under her tricolor, France intends to be, not simply a ruler, but a mother, being not satisfied with a mere improvement of their material standard of life, but aiming at an increase of their intellectual and moral values, because in each human body, without distinction of origin, race, class or creed, she discerns a divine soul, because, from each stone, she will ever try to flash a spark.

THE CHOICE

So far as the French citizens are concerned, they were called this year to show which way they intended to follow for fulfilling their destinies; by an overwhelming majority, they have decided to keep faithful to their forefathers, and to stand by democracy and liberty. If some of their foreign friends disagree on the wisdom of their choice, how many more will give them a warm approval, and in the first rank of these, their British sister democracy, that lucky country where Royalty gives a splendid example of devotion to duty, of understanding interest and practical love for the humblest of their subjects, where the Monarch, far from being a threat to the public liberties, is their strongest guarantor. Such Kings do not possess any Bastille, but, for them, History has to record no July 14.

SOLDIER ON ASSAULT CHARGES

CASE REMANDED

Arthur Robinson, of the Royal Ulster Rifles, was charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday with (a) assaulting Tam Sang, an amah at No. 130, Jaffe Road on July 13, and (b) assaulting Cheung Hing in Jaffe Road.

The first complainant is still in the Hospital and the case was remanded for 48 hours.

In answer to the charges defendant said that the amah fell down the stairs and hit her arm. He struck the second complainant in self-defence.

Such Kings do not possess any Bastille, but, for them, History has to record no July 14.

Therefore, it is with sincerity that, on their National Day, the Day of Democracy, the French community of Hong Kong, being the guests of Old England in this beautiful Colony, remembering with pride and gratitude the common work of the past, looking with hope and confidence towards the common work of the future, propose now to this distinguished gathering the health of If I may venture to use that expression the First Democrat of Great Britain.

Your Excellencies, Ladies and Gentlemen: the King.

THANKS EXPRESSED

Replying to the "Toast Of The King," Sir Andrew Caldecott said:

On behalf of all my countrymen in Hong Kong I tender to our French friends in this Colony our sincere and warm felicitations on their Fete Nationale; and on behalf of all his guests present here this morning thank our host most heartily for this opportunity of observing the happy occasion so enjoyably. Time will not admit of my attempting here even in summary an account of all that France and Britain have contributed jointly (whether in hostility or alliance; in competition or collaboration) to the book of history; there is no need for me to do so, however, as the chapters are well known to us all and contain deeds and achievements to which both our great Nations now look back with a common pride; fast friends to-day we may truly be said to share our glorious past. But I do want to take this occasion to acknowledge a very present debt of gratitude which the people of our British Eastern Colonies owe (and I hope, will always continue to owe) to France; I allude to the wonderful work performed in Hong Kong and Malaya by the French Convents and the Little Sisters of the Poor. It is a matter of great gratification to my wife that one of her first privileges after arrival has been a visit of inspection to the French Convent here in Victoria. The only flag that I can see from my dressing room at Government House, is, not the Union Flag of Britain masted on the roof above me, but the Tricolor of France flying from this Consulate; and as I see it every morning my thoughts gratefully go out to the great work which is being done in our midst; by those noble Frenchwomen who serve the community as Sisters of the Convent or Little Sisters of the Poor. I ask you, Ladies and Gentlemen, to remember them especially when you honour the toast which it is now my proud privilege to propose.

"The President of the French Republic."

GERMANY AND ITALY

Rome Sees Opportunity For Co-operation

"Hong Kong Daily Press" Special Rome, July 13.

"A new period of sincere and successful co-operation between Germany and Italy has opened," writes the "Lavoro Fascista," commenting on Monday evening on the Austro-German reconciliation.

"Germany and Italy," so the paper continues, "have many important features in common. Both are young and strong nations which have moulded their political life into new forms. Like all nations which regard the development of their social and economic life as the highest task for the future, they have a common interest in the maintenance of peace in Europe. But unlike those who wish to keep the states of Europe divided into victors and vanquished, Germany and Italy desire international equality of rights, which gives the greatest possibilities to the strongest and most efficient nation. Against the illusory diplomatic methods, Germany and Italy set the plain language of facts."

REFORTIFICATION OF HELIGOLAND

Commons Disclosure

London, July 13. Lord Cranborne, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, told the House of Commons at question time today that from enquiries he had learned that Heligoland was being refortified.

He made this statement in answer to a question as to whether Germany's undertaking not to refortify the island was being kept. Lord Cranborne added that no right of inspection existed in this connection.

Meanwhile, when addressing a large deputation from both Houses of Parliament which stressed the importance of reform in the House of Lords, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, said owing to the grave problems occupying the whole attention of the Government and the controversial nature of the subject put forward, he was unable to initiate any legislation in the matter of reform at present.

AGREEMENT OVER DARDANELLES

"Hong Kong Daily Press" Special

Montreux, July 13. In a long statement at the Straits Conference on Monday the Turkish Foreign Minister dwelt on the effect that the new agreement would have on the non-signatory powers.

It was desirable, he said, to leave it open for subsequent signature by other powers since its application was general. Turkey, however, reserved herself the right to start negotiations with her neighbours to conclude special arrangements in accordance with the terms of the agreement concluded. No special treatment could, however, be granted to other powers and there was no necessity for concluding agreements with them.

In Conference circles this statement is considered to be directed against Italy, whose presence at the Conference Turkey no longer reckons.

"JIMMY," M.P.

Any other report than the one just rendered by the tribunal inquiring into the British budget "leak" would have flown in the face of the evidence. The testimony led inexorably to Mr. J. H. Thomas as the source of the "leak." The tribunal merely drew the inference. British public life had to be purged of a scandal which might otherwise have tainted faith in their Government.

"It was the Labour Party which first called attention to the 'leak.' It must now be deeply chagrined over the result. For, though Mr. Thomas was a National Labour representative in the Cabinet, and as such anathema to the opposition Labour Party, he was a workingman M. P. And Labour has always insisted that in the Government of Britain workingmen would be just as honourable as 'their betters.' An exception proves rather than nullifies the rule. Against a Thomas British Labour can point with pride to a John Burns, a Henderson, and a hundred others who have been intrusted with the highest offices of state. And those who think that such a dereliction could only have been committed by a Labourite had better look up the records. They will find that neither probity nor the lack of it is the monopoly of a class.

The British public will doubtless watch with some regret the passing of genial "Jimmy" Thomas from public life. He was a colourful character. Like Ralph Backstrom in H. M. S. Pinafire, Thomas was "a Hangman," aspirant and all. He retained his "hangman" and the common touch even when he began to walk with kings and dine with dukes. None was more popular at the dinner tables of London society. If he made a pose out of his lowly origins, it was a pose that was worn so consciously, as to be intended, with his flow of jokes, to excite the risibilities of his fellows.

One could never decide whether his conscious humour was funnier than his unconscious humour. He had a gift for "putting his foot in it." At the India Conference in London he was chairman of a small subcommittee of Hindus and Mohammedans. Patiently he presided over a cantankerous discussion lasting from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m. When the latter hour struck Mr.

CHINA POLITICAL SENSATION

OUSTING OF GENERAL CHEN CHI TANG

Speculation On Future Developments

Shanghai, July 14. "What will General Chen Chi-tang do now?" is the question eagerly asked in political circles to-day following the dramatic decision of the Central Executive Committee in Nanking to oust the Kwangtung military chieftain in favour of his erstwhile subordinate, General Yu Han-mow.

Will he allow General Yu Han-mow—who left Nanking by air last evening for South Kiangsi to join the First Kwangtung Army of which he is the commander—and march ahead of his men into Canton to take up his new appointment? Or will he resist with a second army other loyal units?

The attitude of Generals Li Chung-jen and Pei Chung-hsi is also causing speculation which centres on whether they are likely to support the Kwangtung chieftain, General Chen Chi-tang now that the Central Executive Committee has granted them appointments as supreme military heads of Kwangsi.

On the whole foreign observers, although cautious, are inclined to the belief that many formidable obstacles will be overcome.

GRAVE INCIDENTS IN SPAIN

Monarchist Leader And Ex-Deputy Murdered MANY POLICE OFFICERS ARRESTED

Government Precautions Against Uprising

(“Hong Kong Daily Press” Special)

Madrid, July 14.

Several police officers have been arrested in connection with the murder of the Monarchist leader Calvo Sotelo, among them the driver of the police car in which Sotelo was fetched from his home.

It is now announced that the left wing ex-Deputy de Castillo was also murdered that night. He was killed by revolver shots in the streets of Madrid, his assassins escaping detection.

Police authorities in the capital and the provinces have taken extensive precautions, as it is feared that the great excitement prevailing among the adherents of the right wing parties in view of the assassination of the monarchist leader Sotelo might lead to serious political disorders.

The Government on Monday evening issued a statement severely condemning the political assassinations, and announcing that serious measures will be taken to maintain order and restore respect for the value of human life.

GOVERNMENT MEASURES

Madrid, July 14. The murder of the Monarchist leader, Calvo Sotelo, on the night of July 12 resulted in extraordinary police measures all over Spain in order to safeguard against the possibility of an uprising.

The Communists held a special Diet session on July 13, passing resolutions demanding the immediate dissolution of all right wing organisations.

The Government thereupon decided to close the house of the Anarcho-syndicalist party and all other premises where the Monarchists are accustomed to meet.

The Catholic newspaper “Ga,” which has the largest circulation in Madrid, has been forbidden by the Home Minister until further notice because it published a special issue announcing the murder of Calvo Sotelo.

EARLIER MESSAGES

Madrid, July 13. Investigation proved that murder had been committed in connection with the discovery of the dead body of the Spanish Monarchist leader, Calvo Sotelo which was found in the Alameda Cemetery on Monday.

From information so far available it would seem that although no warrant for the arrest of Sotelo had been issued by the competent authorities, the Monarchist leader was apprehended by men dressed in police uniforms on Sunday night, who have apparently murdered him a short time later. The “police officers” in question, it is said, told Sotelo, when making the “arrest,” that he would be taken to the police headquarters.

The police authorities emphatically deny ever having had any knowledge of the “arrest.” The report of the assassination of Sotelo, who was considered the real leader of the Spanish Nationalists, has caused tremendous excitement among the adherents of the Right parties.

VISIT TO RESIDENCE

Madrid, July 13. Senor Calvo Sotelo, leading Conservative politician, and possible dictator in the event of the Rightists returning to power, was found murdered in a cemetery here tonight.

Whether he was killed after his arrest in the morning, or at the hands of his political adversaries who tricked him into leaving his house, is not known.

A body of men, described as consisting of a Lieutenant of Shock Police and several other policemen, and two Civil Guards, presented themselves at his residence and arrested Senor Sotelo, but the chiefs of the police and Civil Guard, profess ignorance in the matter.

Meanwhile the political situation is critical. The Cabinet is holding protracted meetings. No strikers are returning to work despite the Government's order.

REPRISALS EXPECTED

Madrid, July 13. The murder of Senor Sotelo is likely to evoke extensive Fascist and Monarchist reprisals on account of the new facts discovered relating to the crime.

The body was found in a river, not a cemetery, covered with knife and hatchet wounds.

The assassins are said to have been radical hooligans, disguised as police.

MANY ARRESTS

Madrid, July 13. A Captain, four Lieutenants and five men of the Shock Police have been arrested on suspicion of murdering Senor Sotelo. In addition 135 Fascists have been arrested in Madrid and others in the provinces.

London, July 13. The Austro-German agreement has unsettled the arrangements for the conference of the Locarno Powers, which may be postponed from the original date, July 22.

With regard to the question of inviting Germany to participate in the conference, it is learned that Britain holds that the conference concerns the Locarno Powers, of which Germany ceased to be one when she disavowed the Treaty by occupation of the Rhineland.

Whether this standpoint prevails will depend on diplomatic exchanges proceeding among Britain, France and Belgium on the future of the conference generally.

CZECH PREMIER ON MOVE

Vienna, July 14. To the general surprise the Czechoslovakian Premier, Hodza, arrived in Vienna unannounced on Tuesday afternoon, travelling incognito. Authoritative circles say that Hodza is conferring as a private person with certain political friends to ascertain the significance of the Austro-German pact and its possible effects on the future of Czechoslovakia.

Government circles in Prague fear that the pact might reduce the chances of Czechoslovakia becoming an adherent of the three-power group of Italy, Hungary and Austria.

AUSTRO-GERMAN AGREEMENT

Great Interest In Hungary

PRESS OPINION

(“Hong Kong Daily Press” Special)

Budapest, July 14.

The Austro-German agreement occupies public interest to the exclusion of every other topic here, and eagerly its political aspects and their probable influence on international politics are discussed.

For a long time no event has been so welcomed, since it is declared that now the long-harboured wish for a closer co-operation of Germany and the three Rome Protocol powers can be realised. It is considered a decisive turn in European post-war history.

It is generally assumed here that hitherto an identical line of action will be taken by Germany, Poland, Italy, Austria and Hungary in all important European matters and international questions. It is further regarded that, through the Austro-German agreement, the Hapsburg question can be regarded as having been shelved for the time being.

All papers unanimously declare that German foreign policy has achieved a new important success. The Italian foreign policy, writes the “Pester Lloyd” will henceforth be based on co-operation with Germany, while the Catholic organ “Ujenzedek” declares that an important agreement between Berlin and Rome can be expected, and emphasises a common front against Moscow.

The Liberal and even the legitimist papers state that the world is greatly indebted to Hitler and Schuschnigg since the agreement between Austria and Germany would not split Europe into various camps, but have the effect of uniting it.

Effect Of Heavy Buying

London, July 14.

In view of the intense activity of iron and steel industries throughout Europe, metal circles are somewhat surprised at the continued weakness of wolfram which has fallen from 34/6d. to 27/6d. in three months.

Best informed circles, however, point out that consumers who bought heavily between November and February anticipating a large consumption owing to the Italo-Abyssinian war are now left with big stocks and consequently are able to temporarily abstain from further purchasing.

Moreover, last year's rise induced numerous small producers to begin operations with consequent increase of supplies, while the absence of fresh licences for Germany constitutes an additional bearish factor.

EYSTON BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Test Of Endurance And Skill

FORTY-EIGHT-HOUR RUN IN VIEW

Bonneville, July 13.

In terrific heat and on a wearing track, the daring Capt. George Eyston and his co-driver, Albert Denly, are racing around the salt flats here in quest of records for all distances and times in 48 hours of steady driving. It is a gruelling test of endurance and skill and of the machine the men drive.

When the time-keeper flagged the racing machine at the end of the first twenty-four hours it was known that Capt. Eyston and Denly had easily shattered average speed record of 140.522 miles per hour formerly set by Capt. Eyston, to to-day's speed was unofficially 149.08 miles per hour.

The drivers did not stop. They tore on for a forty-eight hour and other records.

Already they have smashed all records from the 500 kilometres and 2,000 kilometres. This latter record has now been confirmed at 149.27 miles per hour. In addition they have set new speed for 3,000 kilometres distance, 148.819 miles per hour.

For the 3,000 miles distance, they set a pace of 149.242 miles per hour, improving on Capt. Eyston's own former record of 140.75 miles per hour.

Over the 5,000 kilometres distance they travelled at a speed of 149.242 k.p.h., breaking another record, formerly held by Capt. Eyston, 140.42.

The record for three hours driving, formerly held by the racing driver, Cobb, who set a mark of 147.62 miles per hour, was flattened with a speed of 152.171. The six hours drive was made at an average speed of 151.72 miles per hour, a considerable improvement on Cobb's previous speed of 144.64 miles per hour.

Capt. Eyston's own twelve hour record, 143.98 miles per hour, was eclipsed with a speed of 149.02, so that in all the pair have set thirteen new marks for speed drivers to shoot at.

Capt. Eyston has now broken the record for 4,000 miles, with an average speed of 144.81 miles per hour, as against the previous record of 110.4 miles per hour, held by the Frenchmen, Perrot, and Girod.

In twenty-four hours, the British drivers have travelled 3,578.3 miles.

DIMINUTIVE DENLY

London, July 14.

Captain George Eyston and his assistant Denly, taking turns in their racing car upon the salt desert track, have already established eighteen new world records. One of these was the record for twenty-four hours achieved at a speed of 149.05 m.p.h. as compared with the old record of 140.75 m.p.h. set up by the same drivers last year.

The new record would have been better had not the three-ton car run out of petrol, seventeen minutes being lost while Eyston pushed it to the pits. After a brief rest the drivers set out on the further 4,000 miles journey with the object of breaking the 48 hours world record.

The drivers are undergoing a physical ordeal involved by a temperature of 110 degrees during the middle of the day and both are severely scorched by sun and salt.

Denly, though a brilliant driver, is physically so small that a special seat has to be fixed every time he takes over the wheel. The car is behaving perfectly.

CAPTAIN MEYNELL'S GALLANTRY

Victoria Cross Handed To Widow

INDIAN FRONTIER INCIDENT

Addis Ababa Disorders Recalled

London, July 14.

The King this morning held an investiture at Buckingham Palace. Among other decorations conferred, His Majesty handed to Mrs. Meynell the Victoria Cross won by her late husband, Captain Geoffrey Meynell for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty on the Indian frontier in September 1935.

The recent disorders in Addis Ababa after the flight of the Emperor were also recalled at the investiture as a posthumous award was made in connection with the death of Dr. Melly as the result of a shot fired by a drunken rioter.

Before the King handed Mrs. Meynell this decoration, a member of the Lord Chamberlain's department read an official account of her husband's brave act which told how he, with a small party of troops, was surrounded by a large body of Mohmand tribesmen and held up their advance until he was mortally wounded and his men either killed or wounded.

Emphasis was laid upon the magnificent example he set his men.

LATE DR. MELLY

Another woman to receive posthumous decoration was Mrs. Melly, mother of the late Dr. Andrie Melly.

She received the Albert Medal in gold which was awarded to her son in recognition of conspicuous gallantry which he displayed during the disorders at Addis Ababa in May 1936 in his efforts to rescue British and other nationals and wounded Abyssinians, in the course of which he received injuries from which he afterwards died.

CAIRO SUGAR FACTORY

Police Clash With Strikers

MANY CASUALTIES

(“Hong Kong Daily Press” Special)

Cairo, July 14.

Three thousand workers of the sugar factory, Hawamidiya, near Cairo, went on strike on Monday because the wages were long unpaid. The workers occupied the factory and, as amicable persuasion failed to dislodge them, the Government sent to the scene police and soldiers numbering about 1,000 men.

Conciliatory methods adopted by the police having failed, conflicts broke out with the workers pelting the police with lumps of sugar up to 20 kilos in weight. The police were obliged to fire in self-defence, the result being several dead and wounded on both sides.

At night the troops retired, while the workers destroyed the factory and plant.

This was one of the best equipped sugar factories in Egypt, belonging to a Belgian company, which holds the monopoly in Egypt.

HONG KONG FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION

Annual General Meeting Proceedings

CLEANER STANDARD OF PLAY

Favourable comment was passed by Mr. M. T. Johnson in his report at the Annual General Meeting of the Hong Kong Football Association, on the improvement in the cleanliness of the play in the League towards the end of the latter year, which was inspired by an appeal made by the then President, Sir Thomas Southern.

The meeting was held in the rooms of the Sports Club and was attended by members of all Clubs. Supporting Mr. Johnson, who took the Chair in the absence of a President, were Messrs. H. H. Smith (Hon. Secretary), W. L. Alexander and Comdr. C. D. Arbuthnot, J. N.

Opening the meeting, Mr. Johnson said: The Association being without a President owing to the departure from the Colony of Sir Thomas Southern, it was unanimously decided at the last Council Meeting to invite the senior Vice-President, the Honourable Mr. M. K. Lo, to take the Chair to-night. Unfortunately, owing to pressure of business, Mr. Lo was unable to attend many of the Council Meetings and therefore felt that the honour of presiding to-night should fall on me. When the senior Vice-President in his usual jocular and sporting manner asked me if I would "carry on the good work," I had no qualms whatever in saying, "Yes," as I had had a glimpse of the Report and Accounts as drawn up by Captain Kimm, the Acting Honorary Secretary.

Gentlemen, during all the years I have been connected with the Hong Kong Football Association I have never been furnished with a clearer or more concise report, and in consequence of this position, is an exceedingly easy one.

I therefore assume the Chair knowing well that you will give me your full support.

The minutes of the last annual meeting having been published in the press I shall thank you for your authority to take them as read.

REPORT FOR YEAR

The minutes of the last Annual General Meeting were then passed after which the Chairman in making his report on the past year said:

The Annual Report and Accounts having been in your hands for the prescribed period I shall with your permission also take them as read.

I regret very much that the Accounts should show a loss of $3,387.54 but as you know, this is what we are led to expect when it is the Colony's turn to send a team to the Northern Port, and as in the ensuing year we shall be entertaining our Shanghai friends here, we can look forward to being well on the right side at the close of Season 1936-37. It must also be borne in mind that with the Season dragging on so long and the remaining fixtures having to be played on week days to enable our Chinese friends to leave in time for the Olympic Games the Association was deprived of what might have been quite a valuable gate in the usual match "Champions of the League v. The Rest." Instead of this game we had a share in the net proceeds of the game "Chinese Olympic Team v. The Rest," but to my mind had we been able to carry through our full programme, as formerly, a larger sum than $739.97 would have been realised. I therefore sincerely hope that the League Management Committee, or whichever Sub-Committee it is to be let to draft out the programme for next Season, will carefully see to it that the Association is not deprived of any revenue earning matches immaterial of whose convenience it is necessary to arrange for.

EXPENSES REDUCED

Expenses have been cut down to a minimum, thanks to the careful guidance of our Treasurers, and the only item that could possibly call forth any real grievance, in my opinion, is the amount spent on presentations. This question is open to much argument, but it must be remembered that the Association officials are called upon to give up much of their spare time in attending meetings, some as many as four nights a week during the Season from 5.30 p.m. up to as late as midnight, and it appears that the custom of expressing appreciation of valuable services rendered has grown in late years to give something tangible to departing officials. During the past Season we have had an unusual amount of transfers, consequently the figure for presentations has mounted up. It is the view however, of your present Chairman, Colonel Harrison, and to a great extent I share his views, that this might lay the Council open to severe criticism and in future it is the intention to curb this expenditure considerably, if not entirely.

I have already mentioned the good work put in by our Treasurers but I cannot let the occasion pass without calling your attention to the fact that they do a considerable amount of extra work for which they make no charge; and in this connection I would like to mention the name of Mr. Alexander, who like many of us, has got too old to take an active part on the field but throws the whole of his weight into keeping the Chairman on the right side as regards finance.

SECRETARIAL DIFFICULTIES

We have been rather unfortunate this past year in that the Honorary Secretaryship has been in no less than four hands. We all exceedingly regret the sudden demise of the grand old man of football, Mr. G. T. May, and the transfer of Mr. Ralston, but in spite of all the work that has been put in by these Secretaries we were somewhat unfortunate in that the successor to Mr. Ralston found he could not possibly cope with the work, and the returns etc., got into such a chaotic condition it was with a considerable amount of relief that we saw an Acting Assistant Honorary Secretary brought in—R.Q.M.S. H.H. Smith. He, I can assure you, worked for days and nights on end to clarify the position as to registrations of players, referees etc., and has so re-organized the office that with the expert advice of Captain Kimm we have to-day managed to get our house in order and be able to start off the new Season with every confidence that we can lay our hands on past records at a moment's notice, which has not been the case for more years than I can remember. The position of Honorary Secretary of the Association is in my opinion one of the most arduous, and one that very few men can fill. It requires much tact, patience and ability to keep track of all that transpires at the various meetings etc. I therefore cannot impress too keenly on those who may form the new Council to be especially careful in their selection of an Honorary Secretary, as the smooth running of the Leagues and Competitions depend mostly on the man they entrust with this position. Colonel Harrison and I share the view, and we feel other other Councilors will agree, that the Secretary should be a Civilian, and one of standing in the Colony. I therefore hope that some volunteer with the necessary qualifications will come forward before our first Council Meeting.

CHARITY EFFORTS

It is gratifying to know that we were able to do our usual bit for Charity, but I regret the poor attendances during the "Sunday Herald Cup" games. Next Season we should have six teams entered for the "Sunday Herald Cup" and with the arrival of a Scottish Battalion to strengthen the "old crotch"—from the "home of Soccer"—a keener competition should be seen, and I sincerely hope that the public will make a point of attending these games, immaterial of whether they are interested in football or otherwise. We can guarantee them their money's worth and possibly convert the uninterested to soccer, but those attending the games will know that even if they have not enjoyed them they have contributed to a good cause, as the charitable or-

GOMES BEATEN

On the C.S.C.C. Green L. A. Gutierrez beat A. S. Gomes by 21 shots to 15 after 16 heads. Gomes was in bad form and was unable to do much on the whole. On the other hand Gutierrez was in fine fettle and delivered many beautiful woods.

NORONHA'S EASY VICTORY

In the Open Singles of the Lawn Bowls Championship J. E. Noronha beat A. M. Holland, 21-8, at the Kowloon Dock Bowling Green yesterday. The game was an easy one for Noronha, Holland only registering on the first, third, eighth, and tenth heads. On the tenth head the loser scored a four.

organisations of the Colony have many calls on their purse and each and all require more financial assistance annually.

The report fully comments on the activities of the Emergency Committee and I have been asked by our President, Sir Thomas Southern, to express to the Managers of all clubs his appreciation of the way in which they received his appeal for cleaner play. Undoubtedly the teams have gone on the field with a warning to play the game for the game's sake. This has materially assisted and with the innovation of neutral linesmen, ready to spot any tendency towards rough play, the teams are to be congratulated on having done considerably better to live up to the proper spirit of true sportsmanship. It is not forgotten, of course, that the very heavy sentences dealt out by the Emergency Committee was a further deterring factor towards the end of the Season and I sincerely hope that even a still better standard of clean football will be set during the Season 1936-37.

OLYMPIC TEAM

Although Colonel Harrison, on behalf of the Council, addressed a letter to the Chinese Olympic Team, just prior to their departure, wishing them a very successful tour, I feel that they will be happy to know that at this meeting we have them in our mind and added our good wishes for continued success. The results that have reached us so far have been most gratifying, giving the hope that they will give a very good account of themselves when they finally trot out in Berlin.

With these few remarks, Gentlemen, I now formally propose the adoption of the Report and Accounts as presented.

ALTERATIONS IN RULES

The next item on the agenda was the proposals of the Council for the alterations in Rules. These were passed when put to the vote but not until some discussion had taken place.

Another revision in the Rules which was proposed by St. Joseph's Football Club and seconded by the 1st Bn. The Royal Ulster Rifles was "That the 1st Division be reduced to 12 teams next season, or alternately, that no Club or Regiment should enter more than one team in Division 1."

In discussing this proposal Mr. S. Strange said that as the Clubs were becoming better and better a state might arise in the future when there would be about 16 Clubs all up to 1st Division standard. The question would then be who to leave out.

Mr. Shepherd put forward that the matter was not for the discussion of the present meeting but one for the League Management Committee.

When it was put to the vote it was decided by a vote of 18 to 3 that the proposal be squashed.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The following officers were then elected:
President: The Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith.
Vice-President (Chinese): The Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo.
Vice-President (Services): Commander Arbuthnot, R.N.
Vice-President (Civilian Non-Chinese): Mr. T. M. Mitchell.

KOWLOON JUNIOR SCHOOL

Annual Speech Day

There was a large gathering of parents and friends at the Annual Prize Distribution of the Kowloon Junior School, which was held at the school, Oor's Path, yesterday. Miss Cooper, Headmistress in her annual report, revealed a satisfactory state of affairs, which was further emphasised by the splendid display of handicraft of the children which was laid out for inspection in the various class rooms.

Prior to the arrival of Lady Macgregor and Mrs. G. R. Sayer, wife of the Director of Education, those present availed themselves of the opportunity of viewing the children's work, which showed a marked and encouraging improvement over the standard of that displayed in previous years.

Lady Macgregor who distributed the awards, was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of flowers bound with brown and yellow ribbon—the school's colours, which was presented by little Miss Rowena Cairns. At the termination of the proceedings and following the singing of the National Anthem, Master Frank Saby of Form 5, led the school in three hearty cheers for Lady Macgregor.

SCHOOL CONGRATULATED

In a brief speech of congratulation, Lady Macgregor after distributing the awards, said that she was glad to be present at so pleasant a function where she saw so many happy faces.

On behalf of those present, the Rev. H. C. Davies, M.C., M.A., C.F., expressed thanks for Lady Macgregor's presence, and extended hearty congratulations to the staff of the school for the excellent work accomplished by the pupils during the year under review.

The grounds of the school were tastefully decorated with bunting, kindly loaned for the occasion by the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Company.

THE REPORT

In presenting the report, the Headmistress Miss Cooper said:

We are glad to have Lady Macgregor with us to-day, and hope that this visit will often be repeated.

ATTENDANCE

The maximum enrolment for this year was 113 and the average attendance 95. I am glad to say that children are rarely kept away, except for ill-health.

STAFF

Mrs. Ritchie joined the Staff in September last, when Mrs. O'Connor was transferred to the Central British School. Unfortunately she left us in December, and we were all very sorry that her stay with us was so short. We were glad to welcome Miss Whitley back from home leave in December. Miss Swift took over the Drill and Game, until Miss Knill returned from leave in October. Miss Abraham replaced Miss Knill in January, as the latter is fully occupied with the Central British School and the Vernacular Normal school. I should like to say how much we all appreciate the work Miss Knill did here. She has stimulated the children's interest in Gymnastics by her infectious enthusiasm, and it was she who organized our first Sports Day in 1932. This has been an enjoyable annual event since then.

INSPECTIONS

Mr. J. Ralston and Mr. E. J. Edwards inspected the school during the year.

Dr. Lydia Fehly, M.O.S. examined every child in the school in March. Sixty-four letters were sent to parents, regarding defects in eyes, teeth, tonsils, etc. and, where necessary, arrangements were made for special treatment. This is obviously of the greatest value to the physical well being of the children. Following the inspection, Miss Abraham is giving remedials under Doctor's orders.

HEALTH

The health of the school has been good throughout the year, except for cases of Chicken Pox and Whooping Cough reported to the Medical Officer for Schools.

EXAMINATIONS

Seventeen pupils sat for the Preparatory examination of the Royal Drawing Society in June last. Seven passed with honours, seven gained second class honours, and three were in the third class group.

Twenty-five pupils being promoted to the Central British School next term.

SPORTS

Our annual Sports Meeting was held in the grounds of the Kowloon Cricket Club on March 24th, when Lady Southern, O.B.E., presented the prizes. A large number of parents and friends were present, and I feel sure that they and the children spent a happy morning.

The finals of the Net-Ball match were played off against Quarry Bay School on the grounds of Bell's Public School in April last. We won by three goals to two, and so hold the challenge cup, competed for by Junior British Schools, for another year.

GENERAL

In January Miss Gertrude Benham gave us an interesting talk on her travels across Africa. Mrs. Hoare, of the Cosmopolitan Dock, invited Classes 7 and 8 to have a Nature Study lesson with Miss Tassart in her beautiful garden. Later she presented two prizes for the best compositions describing her garden. For these we are very grateful. On December 18th the whole school took part in an entertainment given in St. Andrew's Hall, Kowloon. The sum of $72.00 was raised for the S.P.C. by the sale of tickets and programmes.

We owe thanks to Rev. J. R. Higgs, and the Council of St. Andrew's Church, and to the Committee of the Kowloon Cricket Club for their unfailing kindness, to the Kowloon Dock for the use of flags and decorations tastefully arranged by Mr. Jenner, to the parents, who contributed to the Sports Prize fund, and to the staff for their co-operation, and valuable work done during the year.

ORDER FOR A HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

EXTRADITION PROCEEDINGS ECHO

On the application of Mr. H. G. Sheldon, K.C., instructed by Mr. Peter H. Sin, an order nisi for a writ of habeas corpus against the Superintendent of Victoria Gaol, Mr. J. W. Franks was granted by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor at the Supreme Court yesterday.

This application was in respect to the four fugitives wanted by the Nanking authorities for the alleged complicity in the plot to murder Mr. Wang Ching Wei at Nanking in November last.

The applicants were Yu Lap-ful, alias Li Chi-on, alias Li Shek-yu, Chan Sai-ping, Wu Tai-ho, alias Wu Ki-cheung, alias Wu Tip-chun, and Cheung Chi-hon, who were committed on June 30 at the Central Magistracy by Mr. W. Schofield to stand their trial at Nanking. An intimation that a writ of habeas corpus would be taken out was made at the Magistracy by Mr. Peter H. Sin after the commitment.

The application, Mr. Sheldon said was purely a formal one and was supported by affidavits. As to the question of argument, there was none, as the application was merely for the sake of fixing a day for the Superintendent of the Gaol to show cause why the order should not be made absolute.

July 29 was fixed for the hearing.

TRAFFIC CASES BEFORE COURT

FAILED TO STOP AFTER ACCIDENTS

A number of traffic summonses were heard at the Central Court yesterday afternoon. Two were for failing to stop after accidents.

The other concerned Luk Wah, driver of public car No. 178 who failed to stop when called upon to do so by P.C.A.88, Campbell, and for soliciting for passengers at 1.20 a.m. in Queen's Road Central on June 9.

P. C. Campbell stated that he was patrolling Queen's Road and when near the Queen's Theatre he called on car No. 178 to stop which it failed to do despite the fact that he was waving his arm and flashing his torch. The car was stopped later on by an Indian constable.

Mr. F. I. Zimmern appeared for the defendant.

The defendant stated that he had a phone call and was on his way to his appointment when he was stopped by the Indian constable. He said that he did not see the European constable.

Lee Kwai, a car fitter stated that he had dinner at the Kwok Man Restaurant and had phoned for a car about 1.10 a.m. Car No. 178 turned up at about 1.25 and they drove home.

The defendant was discharged.

SOLDIERS AGAIN REMANDED

ON SERIOUS CHARGES

Three Riflemen of the Royal Ulster Rifles were charged before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday with being implicated in an assault and robbery on Cheung Yiu, 37, driver of taxi No. 786 at Castle Peak Road near Lai Chi Kok on July 6 about at 2.30 a.m.

The accused were: Rifleman Thomas Todd, Rifleman Sydney Brown, and Rifleman Thomas Parke.

The case which is one for commitment was further remanded on the application of the prosecution. According to reports already published, Leung was alleged to have been knocked unconscious and gagged. He was robbed of $11 in money, an electric torch, a wrist watch and a whistle to the total value of $21.00, after he had driven the three soldiers out to Lai Chi Kok.

When he recovered consciousness he went to the Lai Chi Kok Prisons and communicated by telephone with the Sham Shui Po Police Station. The three soldiers were arrested later.

REAL VALUE OF MUSIC

ADAPTABILITY

Referring to Mozart, the speaker said that the famous composer was one of those rare people born with adaptability for music. If one was not born with this adaptability then one must give their ears a chance.

Continuing, Mr. Sydney remarked that he would like to have a boy in his house who was absolutely unmusical but not suffering from any defect of the ears. He would put on the gramophone a piece in accordance with the lad's age. It would be some march by Schubert, for instance. The speaker would not call the boy to listen but would merely play the piece but the speaker would know that that music would be tuning the lad's ears. The experiment would be carried out for ten days and the speaker guaranteed that at the end of that period one would probably hear the boy whistling the tune. By the time the lad grew up he would be paying money to hear Beethoven's works. Even if the child just re-acted to the music there must be some good in it.

Another reason why people generally thought that music was a special subject, said Mr. Sydney, was, he was sorry to say, the number of professors, both amateur and professional, who go into ecstasies about any extraordinary composition. The lover of music was one who had music in his soul—Beethoven and Schubert were among the composers who got into one's soul.

BACH AND COCKTAILS!

While in Shanghai a short while ago, said Mr. Sydney, he was invited to a highbrow cocktail party and when he arrived there the subject under discussion was Bach, the most austere of composers. (The only place where one could hear the works of Bach with any satisfaction was in a Church). Mr. Sydney dropped a bombshell when he remarked, "To tell you the truth, I don't like Bach"; "and that was the end of me," he added. "One could not appreciate Bach at a cocktail party. There were too many people in the world who were 'big bluffs' when it came to talking about music, he stated.

In closing, Mr. Sydney spoke of Richard Strauss, one of the pioneers of modern music. The great Brahms once attended a concert given by Strauss and at the conclusion remarked to the young rising composer, "It was very good, but why don't you study one of Schubert's simple waltzes?" "I shall now play you 'Pastoral with variations' by Mozart," said Mr. Sydney as he took his seat at the piano. "I have chosen it because of its utter simplicity to illustrate the truth of what I have been telling you."

The piece was well received after which Mr. Sydney thanked the audience for their attention.

SPEAKER THANKED

In an amusing speech, Rotarian W. H. Bell, said that when he was first approached he rather shied the idea of making a speech of thanks as he knew nothing about music, much less poetry, to which the Chairman replied, "That is nothing. You are on both Councils. You can talk about anything even if you know nothing about it." (Laughter).

Continuing, Rotarian Bell said that he was told to tell a few funny stories such as the boy who said a concerto was a low woman and "in sotto voce" meant that the singer had one over the eight. (Laughter).

"I gave this matter much thought," he said. "On Sunday night I am blessed if I didn't have a nightmare about it. In my dream I promised not only to make the speech but also to sing a song, the music and words of which I did not know. This room changed into the Great Hall of the University and you were all students listening to me. It was quite obvious that you did not approve of my singing for when I said I was off to Philadelphia in the morning you said, 'why wait till morning? Why not go now?' (Loud laughter).

In conclusion, Rotarian Bell said: "The point that struck me forcibly indeed is that not only is the speaker a master of his subject but he is also a great lover of his subject. It must have given him great pleasure to prepare the address he has given us to-day. I can assure him that it has given us a greater measure of pleasure to hear his most instructive ad-

HENNESSY ROAD ACCIDENT

Traffic Charge Not Sustained

Hau Yuk-sang, driver of car No. 2992, was charged with having failed to stop after an accident in Hennessy Road on June 14, at about 8.10 p.m.

Mr. D. McCallum appeared for the defendant. Traffic Sergeant M. Clarke was for the prosecution. Mr. O. M. Omar, of the "Hong Kong Daily Press," who was on the scene of the accident shortly after its occurrence, stated that on June 14, about 8.10 p.m., he was standing with a crowd of his friends and his attention was attracted to the scene by the noise of the screeching brakes of a tramcar. Sensing that something was wrong he dashed up to the place and found that a man had been badly injured, and was lying near a tramcar. Bystanders told him that the man had been knocked down by a car. There was a rather big crowd but they showed no signs of hostility.

Witness said that he did not see any car parked near the accident, and under cross-examination, he said that this was one of the first things that he looked for. At the beginning, however, before witness arrived there, he admitted that there might have been a car there but obstructed from his view by the stationary tramcar.

Defendant said that after the accident, when he had drawn up to the left near the kerb, the crowd was so hostile that he went to the police station to report the matter.

Mr. Schofield in giving judgment said that the evidence went to show that there might have been a crowd there. The evidence of the reporter was not decisive either way. The defendant was discharged.

dress. On behalf of the Club, Mr. Sydney, I thank you." (Applause). Mr. Sydney arrived in the Colony about a month ago from Shanghai. He is resident in Kowloon.

Yesterday's meeting was not broadcast.
